

GC fund crisis forces layoffs, expense freeze, loans

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Recognizing that Granite City is in "serious financial straits," the city council decided Tuesday night to borrow $1 million from a bank, to freeze all city expenses and to reduce the staffs of all city departments by 20 percent by July 15.

The council also is considering a recommendation to impose a utility tax in the near future to increase the city's income.

The borrowing and staff reductions are designed to pull the city out of a "financial crisis that is the result of the nationwide recession and inflation," according to a press release issued by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler at the council meeting.

Exact implementation of the 20 percent staff reduction in all departments is to be worked out in meetings between the department heads, the mayor and the council between now and July 15. If the 20 percent recommendation of the council is followed, the police department will have to lay off about 12 persons, the fire department will lose 10 or 11, the street department and sewage treatment plant will be reduced by about six salaries each, air pollution will lose one, general government operations will decrease by three employees and there will be other layoffs, reducing the overall city staff from about 247 employees to 200.

The council stipulated that those laid off will be rehired, in order of seniority, when the city's financial condition improves.

Exactly which employees are to be laid off in which departments is expected to be the topic of lengthy discussion and consideration in the next three weeks.

Chief of Police Ronald J. Velzer will have to decide how many of his 12 to be laid off will be policemen and how many will be clerks, secretaries and dispatchers. "We can operate, but we cannot operate as efficiently as now. We are going to have to wait and see how these layoffs are accomplished," he said after the meeting. Velzer said he knew nothing of the possible layoffs until reading Monday's Press-Record.

Street Superintendent Lionel Fortell said he can trim six employees from his department, but the people should realize they are going to get only what they pay for. "We are just going to have to curtail a lot of our services. Brush pickups are one of the biggest right now we will probably cut and the TV (televising of the inside of sewers) and grouting are going to suffer. We were just getting ready to start televising of the sewers," Fortell said.

Terrence McMillan, superintendent of the city's sewage treatment plant, said Wednesday, "We're scratching our heads right now," in attempting to determine how layoffs could be accomplished.

"The council has to realize there is a great preponderance of union work rules that would prevent the layoffs. That's something that would have to be worked out with the union."

"The contract says how many people will do a job and only way to cut down is to have fewer people on a job, which violates the memorandum of agreement," McMillan contended.

In addition to the layoffs, the city

By PAT FOLEY
of the Press-Record

At 4:05 p.m. Monday, a pressure buildup in a pump station at the Granite City Army Installation ripped a large steel plate from its foundation, releasing tons of water, which caused heavy damage to the pump building. The crisis abruptly curtailed pumping from the Granite City Wastewater Treatment Plant into the Mississippi River.

The city treatment plant is totally dependent upon the "deep hole pump station," operated by the U.S. Army, to pump its treated water to the river when the river stage here reaches 22 feet or higher.

The river reached the 22-foot mark when measured at 1 p.m. Monday and continued to rise to 25.8 feet on Tuesday.

Lt. Col. Chester Tutor, installation commander, said the pump station failure occurred when the gate between the pumps and the outlet to the river was in the closed position and three of the five pumps started to operate.

After only a few minutes, the pressure of the pumping action within the closed area ripped a steel plate above the gate from its bolts, allowing thousands of gallons of water to flood the pump station, which then caused the short-circuiting of the pump control panels.

Sixty-three windows in the building were blown out by the force, which also bowed an 8-by-10-foot overhead door outward. The pump station access door was blown from its hinges by the force and volume of water.

Also destroyed were standby wet-cell batteries used at the pump station as a back-up power supply in the event that the regular power supply is not available. The acid from these batteries did further damage to wiring in the control panels and connecting wiring in the floor of the building.

Granite City Fire Department pumps and personnel were called in immediately to aid the Army in installing fire department in beginning pumping operations.

Fire Chief Don Parente, Assistant

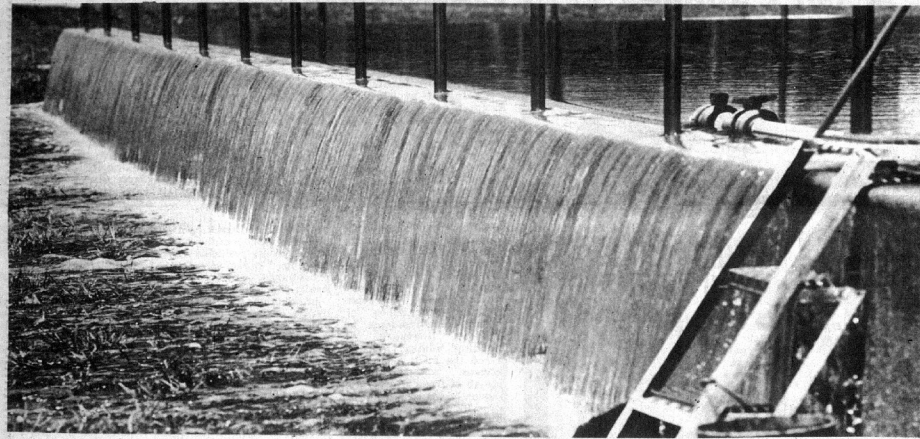

Fire Chief George Smolich and Police Chief Ronald Velzer all responded to the scene to aid in coordinating the emergency operations, as did Terry McMillan, superintendent of the city's wastewater treatment facility.

The city's storm water pumps were put into operation to divert incoming sewage into a nearby 6 million-gallon stormwater treatment tank, which quickly filled and threatened to overflow and spill raw sewage on the surrounding area.

First department pumps were used to pump the water from the treatment tank over the levee and into the river, allowing some raw sewage to be dumped into the Mississippi.

"If it had rained last night, we would have lost," Lt. Col. Tutor said Tuesday morning in summing up the problem. He said the pumping operation was

Miofsky new school board president

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Thomas George "Tom" Miofsky was elected Tuesday night as president of the Granite City Board of Education for a period ending in November. Donald W. Stucke succeeded him as board secretary.

The reorganization was necessary due to the election of Stephen Saltich, president, as a Granite City alderman.

Saltich resigned from the school board in May.

The move from the board of Community Unit School District Nine to the City Council also left two other vacancies that were filled Tuesday night.

E. Dewey Melton, appointed to the board June 9, was chosen to represent the board on the Citizens Advisory Council. Board Member Robert Maxwell was named to the board's policy committee, which also includes Miofsky and Treasurer George Moore Sr.

The seven-member Board of Education now consists of Miofsky, Stucke and Moore, officers, and L. Monroe Worthen, David Partney, Maxwell and Melton.

Miofsky currently is completing the second of two three-year board terms. The positions now held by Miofsky and Worthen will be subject to four-year terms and Melton's spot will be determined for a two-year span in this November's election. Terms and election dates were altered by a statewide election consolidation law.

The new board president previously held the presidency for two years, from April 1976 to April 1978.

Miofsky, married and a father, is associated with Granite City Steel. A former teacher, he is 33 years old.

A lifelong Granite Cityan, he operated private learning achievement centers in Madison and Belleville and also taught physiology, chemistry and biology for seven years in the Collinsville school district and at Belleville Area College.

He holds a bachelor of science degree from St. Louis University and a master of science degree from Southern Illinois

Whitsell quits sewer district

Louis Whitsell, chairman of the Madison County special sewer committee, resigned Tuesday night with an angry statement at last night's sewer committee meeting.

Whitsell said the increase in monthly sewage treatment rates voted by the county board last week is "a mistake, a ripoff and I will not be any part of it."

His letter suggested that operation of the sewer district be turned over to County Auditor Arthur "Pete" Fields and Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, who ramrodded the increase through the county board and Whitsell said he then could join "with the mass of people" to work against them and oppose them in the next election.

Whitsell's statement came as a surprise to the approximately 30 persons in the audience. After reading his statement, Whitsell walked out of the meeting. Smith took over the meeting, explaining the reasons for the increase in the monthly treatment and sewer maintenance charge and Committee Member Morris Miles then suggested the meeting end without conducting any official business, until Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer can appoint a new committee chairman.

The committee agreed and the meeting was ended, before it officially opened.

Whitsell's resignation letter, which he read aloud, said he has been a supporter of the sewer project since 1971 and has "stuck it through, despite harassment to my family and myself."

He said he believes that his activities on behalf of the sewers played a part in him losing his post as supervisor of Nameoki Township four years ago, but he still played an active role in the sewer project, believing it was right.

He contended he now has been "pushed aside" by Fields and Smith, who have "taken the project over." He also said that the action of the county board, increasing the monthly treatment fee from $11.80 to $15.80, was unnecessary and improper and the Use tax savings to improve apartments

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Policies followed by Supervisor of Assessments James Barton have been of benefit to Madison County governmental agencies by preserving the property tax base and providing their operating revenue, he has told the state Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI).

Barton cites as an example a group of five apartment buildings on Maryville Road owned by John Sobol.

Barton told the DCI that "when Sobol bought these apartments, they were run-down and badly in need of repair. Sobol put a tremendous amount of money into the property to fix them up."

"According to Barton, Sobol requested that the Board of Review give him a reduction in his assessment so that he could use this money to re-do the apartments and bring them up to a better standard."

"The Board of Review agreed with Sobol to do this and, therefore, issued the certificate of error for the reduction."

"At the present time, the apartments are in very good shape; the value has gone up, and the new tax bills will reflect the proper assessment on this property," Barton said Oct. 31, 1979.

Assessments for the 1975 tax year were $25,200 at each of four similar 1968-vintage brick and frame apartment properties—3025, 3213, 3219 and 3223 Maryville Road—and $22,850 at 3227 Maryville.

The 1976 and 1977 proposed and reduced assessments were: (3205) $27,480 cut to $15,000 and $27,070 cut to $13,530; (3215) $27,790 reduced to $12,000 and $27,380 cut to $13,690; (3219) $27,480 cut to $15,000 and $27,070 cut to $13,530.

(3223) $27,480 reduced to $15,000 and $27,070 cut to $13,530; and (3227) $22,380 cut to $12,000 and $22,050 reduced to $11,000 by certificates of error.

Taxes paid for 1975-76-77 were (3205) $1,990, $973 and $940; (3215) $1,090, $778 and $951; (3219) $1,090, $973 and $940; (3223) $1,090, $973 and $940; and (3227) $1,539, $778 and $766.

The structure at 3205 Maryville Road was shown as consisting of eight four-room apartments, four apartments on each of two floors. Also listed were a 23x27-foot laundry room and a detached garage building of 480 square feet.

Each floor was described as con-

Sidener firm seeking million for building

With the aid of industrial revenue bonds to be issued by Granite City, Sidener Supply Co., 19th and Adams streets, is planning to construct a $1 million warehouse and office complex in the Northgate Industrial Park, near Pre-Coat Metals, the Granite City, Council was informed Tuesday night.

Dec. 16, 1980, the council agreed to issue up to $700,000 in industrial revenue bonds for the company to build on 5.9 acres. That agreement was rescinded Tuesday night when the company asked that the amount be increased to $1 million and announced plans to build on 7.696 acres of land.

Larry Sidener, president of Sidener Supply, told the Press-Record Wednesday that his firm is planning to build a 36,000 warehouse and office building which will cost $1 million for construction and site work. That does not include the ground, which is in the industrial park being developed by Illinois Power Co.

Sidener said that eventually, he hopes to move the company's St. Louis headquarters back to Granite City in the proposed building. The move would involve 15 to 20 office workers, bringing the total Sidener employment here to about 50.

The company deals in wholesale waterworks, selling pipes, valves and other equipment to contractors.

Sidener said the schedule for construction of the new building depends on the interest rate achieved through the industrial revenue bonds. If the interest rate is favorable, the firm hopes to be in the new building in 1982.

"If the interest rate is not favorable, the company could decide to wait. We don't have to move, but it is a question of outgrowing where we are," Sidener said.

He said plans for increasing office space and warehouse space have been underway for some time, but the company rescinded its December plans and decided to "look down the road a little further. We expect that much growth. We would rather have too much room than not enough," he said.

Sidener explained that he started the company in Granite City and always have been here. When the company ran out of space, it moved the corporate office to a service center already being operated in St. Louis.

Now, Sidener hopes to return all operations to Granite City. Sidener commented, "Granite City has been good to us. I don't want to complain. We get the full cooperation of the city officials."

He said the long-range plans of the company to expand its operations here

At the end of his junior year, he won the French and German awards as the most outstanding student in both foreign languages. He also served as dormitory proctor.

Arrests underway for early use of overpass

Granite City police have begun arresting persons using the new 19th Street overpass for playing, bicycle riding and driving, Mayor Paul Schuler warned this week.

Schuler said several autos have been damaged by striking manholes or other items on the unfinished pavement and the construction area poses a danger to children and motorists alike.

Therefore, Schuler has begun Chief of Police Ronald J. Veizer to enforce no-trespassing ordinances at the overpass construction site and to issue other appropriate citations for reckless driving, vandalism or other violations.

The overpass is not expected to be opened to traffic until late fall.

Martha Perry national social worker of year

Martha J. Perry has been named National Social Worker of the Year 1981 by the National Association of Social Workers (NASW).

Nominated by NASW's Kentucky Chapter after having received its local Social Worker of the Year award, Perry is well known in the community for her work with aged and disabled clients.

In fact, she was forced out of her job this spring because of her outspoken efforts on behalf of the agency's (Department for Human Resources, Louisville) clients and her social work colleagues. The former included action to reform nursing homes, to revise transfer procedures of nursing home residents, to promote licensure of boarding homes, and to extend the adult protection services.

In all of these efforts, she frequently found herself at odds with the bureaucracy which she worked. She remained constant, however, in speaking on behalf of the needs of the clients and in challenging the bureaucracy's policies and procedures.

In making these needs known to the public, she cooperated with Joel Brinkley, a reporter for the Louisville (KY) Courier-Journal and NASW's National Public Citizen of the Year 1981, in his investigative series on nursing and boarding homes in Kentucky.

This series of articles, co-authored with reporter Mary Dieter and Robert Pierce, accurately and fairly exposed conditions in Kentucky's nursing homes and forced that State to initiate major reforms.

She also publicly challenged her Department's transfer procedures of nursing home residents and developed more effective procedures which were finally adopted by the State.

In addition to these activities on behalf of dependent adults, her controversial year which earned her this national award included chairing an NASW-sponsored rally at the Kentucky State Capitol to support social workers arbitrarily fired by the Department for Human Resources—which, at the time, was her place of employment.

She is a teacher and public practitioner of Christian Science.

The Church of Christ, Scientist, was founded by religious leader Mary Baker Eddy in 1879, and has grown into more than 3,000 churches in 56 countries.

Miofsky

University at Edwardsville. He was among those instrumental in the establishment of management-by-objectives methods in the Granite City school system.

In 1970, he worked in an experimental education project in Guatemala, Central America.

Miofsky has been a member of the Tri-City Red Cross Chapter board and the Chamber of Commerce.

He voiced his appreciation Tuesday night for the confidence shown in him by the other board members. Both the president and secretary were nominated and elected without opposition.

Stucke, 58, born in Mitchell and a lifelong Quad-Citizen, was appointed to the Board of Education in August 1967 and won election to three-year terms in 1969-71-74-77-80.

He served as board president from April 1978 to April 1980 after also holding the presidency in 1973-74. Salich was the president from April 1980 to May 1981.

Stucke, married and a father and grandfather, was a tool designer at Carter Carburetor Co., St. Louis, at the time he joined the board and has been employed by the Prudential Insurance Co. since 1969.

He is a past board secretary and a past treasurer of the school district. Stucke has served as delegate and vice-chairman of the Large District Council of the Illinois Association of School Boards and as a member of the IASB board of directors. His memberships include the Amvets and Elks.

During Tuesday night's board meeting, Norma Roney was employed as a secretary in the personnel department of the school system, effective July 1.

The board commended Mrs. Martha Rochester for her service to the school district. She is retiring at the end of this month as secretary to the superintendent.

Illness leaves of absence were approved for Jeanne Francis, a Webster School middle primary teacher, for the 1981-82 year and Virginia Owens, a matron at Granite City High School North, for July 1, 1981, to Jan. 1, 1982.

Two teacher assistants at the former Granite City Pre-School, Donna Jones and Nellis Moske, were honorably dismissed due to the economy-related closing of the district's program for four-year-old children.

Norman S. Owca, director of finance, was designated Tuesday night to prepare a tentative budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

On Owca's recommendation, the board re-established for the 1981-82 year revolving funds in the same amounts as those at present—$6,500 Board of Education, $500 GCIS South, $500 GCIS North, $250 each at the three junior high schools and $25 each at the 13 elementary schools, a grand total of $8,575.

Year-end fund transfers affecting 130 accounts, outlined by Owca, were approved by the board. The largest totaled $195,000, transferred from education contingencies to health.

The sum of $74,000 was moved from education contingencies to elementary special education; $45,000 from education contingencies to special education tuition; $34,000 from the education fund for food to supplies other than food, and $24,000 from education salaries to vocational equipment.

needs immediate cash to pay overdue bills and to meet the June payroll of $225,246, it was indicated at the meeting.

The council agreed to borrow up to $1 million from a bank, at an interest rate not to exceed eight percent, for a term of up to two years. The loan will be in the form of $100,000 bank notes, rather than tax anticipation warrants, since the anticipation warrants require repayment from the first tax revenues received by the city.

The bank notes allow up to 24 months to repay and the loan is secured by a provision that if the city fails to satisfy the principal and interest by the deadline, a direct property tax will be applied annually against personal property until the debt is satisfied.

The aldermen put the resolution to borrow the money on first reading and then unanimously gave it final approval.

Several aldermen confirmed that the session by the council Tuesday night followed a 90-minute executive session during which conflicting recommendations from the mayor and from the finance committee were read and discussed.

Finance committee chairman Paul Ray Bowler released a written list of his committee's major recommendations, which included combining the city's legal staff into one full-time city attorney at $20,000 a year, freezing the manpower in the fire, police and ambulance services and letting the number of employees drop by attrition and reducing the city clerk and treasurer's departments by 25 percent.

Also, deleting the city's sanitation and safety departments, streamlining the engineering and inspection departments and moving all of their employees into the city hall, adding a computer program and having low bidders do street sweeping, tree trimming and snow removal, rather than the street department.

Bowler confirmed that the possibility of eliminating the city's air pollution control department was discussed, but was the proposal was rejected.

Alderman Warren Decatur, a member of the finance committee, estimated that the city's financial status at all times. Sixth was a complete review of the operation of the sewage treatment plant.

The sewerage recommendation, and one likely to meet stiff opposition, is to impose a utility tax, possibly one-half of one percent, either on industrial or commercial customers or on all users. The rate would be determined by the council. One-half of a percent would produce approximately $1.5 million a year, discussions last year indicated when a utility tax was considered to help fund the 19th Street overpass.

The utility tax was rejected last year when Granite City Steel agreed to give the city $1.7 million toward the overpass construction, with the stipulation that the money would be credited to the company should a utility tax ever be imposed by the city.

Schuler's eighth recommendation, which was adopted by the council, was an across-the-board reduction in city salaries. Asking city employees to accept reductions in their salaries, rather than using layoffs, was rejected because of anticipated union opposition. Aldermen said after the council meeting.

Schuler's final recommendation was not discussed, the aldermen said. It was an increase in real estate taxes on property.

The mayor concluded his release, saying, "We have faced problems in the past and together we have solved them. Together we can solve these."

The only alderman who abstained on the vote for the 20 percent staff reductions in all departments was Everett Morien of the First Ward, who did vote in favor of the $1 million in borrowing. Alderman Margaret Nomm of the Fifth Ward was absent.

The council also agreed to combine the city's legal staff into one full-time city attorney at $20,000 a year, freezing the manpower in the fire, police and ambulance services and letting the number of employees drop by attrition and reducing the city clerk and treasurer's departments by 25 percent.

Flood threat

The steel plate, which was thrown from the gate area and struck the ceiling above, was also damaged and had to be flattened and then welded back into position.

LI. Col. Tuttle praised the excellent response of the city's police and fire departments and the coordination of their efforts and those of the Army installation fire department during the pumping operations, as did Clifford Yarbrough, the only patroling security officer on the installation at the time of the equipment malfunction.

Yarbrough said the police department quickly aided in setting up a command post to help the lone dispatcher on duty handle the deluge of radio messages and requests connected with the problem.

McMillan told the council Tuesday night that he plans to work with the street department in cleaning a ditch between the main drain pipe and the secondary pump, which can be used if the primary deep pump ever fails again.

The council authorized all of the city employees who were involved in the emergency operation to receive typhoid immunizations free, if they feel they may have been exposed to typhoid germs.

Chief of Police Ronald J. Veizer told the council that the Army has pledged to provide the city with reports on what happened to cause the pump station to malfunction. Preliminary reports should be available immediately, but final reports will require Army clearance, will take about two weeks to receive, Veizer was told.

The reports are requested so the city can determine if it will be responsible for the cost of any repairs. Alderman Paul Flisk explained that the city and the Army have a contract which calls for the city to pay 60 percent of any costs incurred at the pump station. "My question is if we are liable if it was no fault of the city," Flisk said.

City Attorney John Papa answered, "That is something I will have to discuss with the department heads involved."

Robert Greaves, vice-president of the water company, estimated that about 300,000 to 500,000 gallons of water per day are discharged into the city sewers after filters at the company's treatment plant at 23rd Street and Logan Avenue are back-washed.

Sand and solids from the back-wash water are normally discharged onto the company property. During the emergency, both these solids and the diverted wastewater were discharged together.

Clean-up of the Army installation pump station was started subsequent to the emergency pumping to allow the crews access to the damaged control panels for removal and repairs.

buildings were in poor shape and many of the tenants were troublemakers. "He stated that he invested approximately $100,000 in repairs to the buildings and had some of the tenants evicted."

"When he received the tax bills on the property, he contacted Barton and yelled about the amount of taxes on the property."

"He told Barton it would take about two years to get the apartments straightened out, and that he wanted the taxes reduced for that period. He stated that Barton apparently got the Board of Review to go along, because certificates of error were issued for both the 1976 and 1977 tax years."

"The first time he felt they had made a profit on the apartments was in March 1979."

"Sobol was asked if he had appealed the taxes."

warehouse of metal or block with an office of brick is envisioned. He said the office will contain approximately 10,000 square feet and the other 16,000 square feet will be the warehouse, Sidener said.

Some outdoor storage will continue, but the amount will be reduced greatly from the present outdoor storage use, he added.

Sidener said no plans have been made for the future of the company's property and building at 19th and Adams streets. Possibilities include selling or leasing the facilities to another company or using them for additional Sidener space, he noted.

five years and study cuts in overtime, hiring, seminars and unnecessary expenditures.

His fifth recommendation was to hire a full-time comptroller who can keep the council alerted to the city's financial status at all times. Sixth was a complete review of the operation of the sewage treatment plant.

The sewerage recommendation, and one likely to meet stiff opposition, is to impose a utility tax, possibly one-half of one percent, either on industrial or commercial customers or on all users. The rate would be determined by the council. One-half of a percent would produce approximately $1.5 million a year, discussions last year indicated when a utility tax was considered to help fund the 19th Street overpass.

The utility tax was rejected last year when Granite City Steel agreed to give the city $1.7 million toward the overpass construction, with the stipulation that the money would be credited to the company should a utility tax ever be imposed by the city.

Schuler's eighth recommendation, which was adopted by the council, was an across-the-board reduction in city salaries. Asking city employees to accept reductions in their salaries, rather than using layoffs, was rejected because of anticipated union opposition. Aldermen said after the council meeting.

Schuler's final recommendation was not discussed, the aldermen said. It was an increase in real estate taxes on property.

The mayor concluded his release, saying, "We have faced problems in the past and together we have solved them. Together we can solve these."

The only alderman who abstained on the vote for the 20 percent staff reductions in all departments was Everett Morien of the First Ward, who did vote in favor of the $1 million in borrowing. Alderman Margaret Nomm of the Fifth Ward was absent.

The council also agreed to combine the city's legal staff into one full-time city attorney at $20,000 a year, freezing the manpower in the fire, police and ambulance services and letting the number of employees drop by attrition and reducing the city clerk and treasurer's departments by 25 percent.

Also, deleting the city's sanitation and safety departments, streamlining the engineering and inspection departments and moving all of their employees into the city hall, adding a computer program and having low bidders do street sweeping, tree trimming and snow removal, rather than the street department.

Weekend college greatly expanded

Belleville Area College isn't just for weekday students any longer. Those who work 9 to 5 Monday through Friday can enroll in BAC's Weekend College.

Nearly 40 classes ranging from art to chemistry to business will be offered Friday nights and Saturdays when the fall semester begins Aug. 24.

"In the past we've offered four or five classes a semester on weekends," Dean of Career Programs Bob Eskridge said. "This year's schedule is greatly expanded."

Baccalaureate courses have not been taught on weekends in the past, he added. Entry level classes in every field will be offered on Fridays and Saturdays this fall.

Among the Saturday courses planned is an introduction to microcomputers-basic, which was introduced into the curriculum this summer because of student demand for it.

"It's useful to secretaries whose offices are going to purchase microcomputers with word-processing functions, and to businessmen who are using microcomputers for such things as payroll," Eskridge said.

In addition to providing class times convenient for those who work during the week, the Weekend College also will provide evening openings in popular courses — including typing, shorthand and data processing — over-weekend days.

Registration for the weekend classes is under way. To enroll, Quad-Cityans may visit the BAC main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Phone registration will be taken during the same hours July 20 to Aug. 7 at 235-7900. Career courses to be offered from 9 to 11:45 a.m. Saturdays include private pilot ground, business mathematics, introduction to marketing, shorthand I, typing I, introduction to data processing, Cobol I, personnel management, construction blueprints and specifications, and introduction to horticulture. Emergency medical technician-paramedic, and tactics and strategy II will be taught from 9 a.m. to 1:10 p.m. Saturdays.

Other Saturday career courses include introduction to microcomputers-basic, 9 to 11:40 a.m.; and problems in welding, 8 to 10:30 a.m. and 8 a.m. to 12:10 p.m.

Baccalaureate courses will be offered Fridays and Saturdays. Those to be taught from 7 to 9:45 p.m. Friday include understanding the arts, accounting I, rhetoric and composition I, history of the U.S. to 1877, intermediate algebra and general psychology.

Health will be taught from 7 to 8:50 p.m. Friday. Courses to be offered from 9 to 11:45 a.m. Saturday include understanding the arts, introduction to business, accounting I, business law I, rhetoric and composition I, geography of U.S., college algebra, music for listening, introduction to American government, and fundamentals of public speaking.

Other courses include elementary Spanish I, 8 to 11:40 a.m.; health, 8:30 to 10:20 a.m.; introduction to literature, noon to 2:45 p.m.; and world history, applied psychology, and child development, 1 to 3:45 p.m.

Principles of biology lectures are scheduled for 7 to 8:15 p.m. Friday and 8 to 9:15 a.m. Saturday. Lab sections will be from 8:25 to 9:15 p.m. Friday and from 9:25 to 10:15 a.m. Saturday.

General chemistry lectures will be from 8:30 to 9:45 p.m. Friday and lab from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m. Saturday. There is a $10 laboratory fee for biology and chemistry. Tuition is $17 per credit hour.

Help found for eight unattended children

Eight children found unattended in a house without electricity in the 2300 block of Iowa Street early this week were removed from the house and temporary quarters were found for them, police reported Tuesday.

Police said an 11-year-old said he had been gone since Thursday and when he returned home, the mother could not be found. The other children, ages 9 months to 9 years, said they had not eaten in about 12 hours, having had dry cereal for breakfast. Milk could not be kept in the refrigerator, since there was no electricity, they told police.

The seven younger children were taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where they were fed, checked and released. Diapers on the youngest children had to be changed, authorities said.

Two children were turned over to the natural father, the other six were housed by Children and Family Services until the mother can be located and arrangements made for the care of the children.

BASEMENT THEFT
Items valued at approximately $339 were stolen from the basement of a house in the 3000 block of Mockingbird Lane two weeks ago, the owner of the items, Pat Martin, 2087 Iowa St., told police Monday. Missing was a clock radio, a hanging lamp, a bed spread, bed linens, a car vacuum cleaner and four pictures he had been storing in the basement.

The first day they floated five miles and set up camp on a rock barge next to the river.

After breakfast the next morning, they floated another five miles, ate lunch and returned to Camp Sunnen.

Each Scout finishing the training was presented with a recognition certificate and a Junior Leader Training emblem for his uniform.

Fireworks may be perilous to eyes

Reported eye injuries from fireworks accidents rose nearly 40 percent in 1980 over the previous year, according to the National Society to Prevent Blindness (NSPB).

Thousands of Americans suffer disabling injuries from fireworks each year, virtually all of which could be avoided. In hospital emergency rooms alone, an estimated 9,400 people were treated for pyrotechnic injuries last year. Of this total, 1,600 were to the eye.

With the Independence Day holiday approaching, NSPB has issued a warning that fireworks of all kinds endanger life and limb, especially the eyes.

"The figures available may represent only a fraction of people who were hurt. There is no way to estimate how many were admitted directly to hospitals or were treated in doctors' offices," explained NSPB Executive Director Virginia S. Boyce.

"All fireworks—firecrackers, bottle rockets, M-80's, as well as punks and sparklers—can burn the eyes, even cause blindness," Mrs. Boyce Continued.

"Seemingly harmless sparklers sizzle at temperatures over 1500 degrees F."

"The only safe way to enjoy fireworks is in licensed public displays," she advised. "For many years, the Society has urged that use of pyrotechnics be limited in this way. In fact, this is the law in 28 states, but fireworks are still sold illegally on streets and in many stores."

Parents should pay particular attention to these warnings, since the majority of the injury victims are children. "Fireworks are explosive devices. Be sure to keep your youngsters away from them. And, don't forget, the victims of pyrotechnic accidents are often innocent bystanders."

Madison County exhibitors take first in art show

Four Madison County amateur artists received first-place honors at the Regional Town & Country Art Show held at St. Clair Square Mall. Their winning entries will be entered in the State Town & Country Exhibition at Urbana in October.

A Highland artist, Lori Clement-Gardner, received first-place for her tempera painting entitled, "A Quiet Place." First place was also awarded to three Edwardsville artists: Sam Fazio for his photograph "French Pears," Roseann Sullenger for her fiber art entitled, "Woven Design," and Vera Jajelski for her watercolor painting, "Number Five." Jagielski's work was also awarded Best of Show in the Madison County Town & Country exhibit in Edwardsville.

Receiving second-place at the Regional Show were Donna Tamburello, Collinsville, for her oil painting, "Theresa," and Katie Thom, Collinsville, for her water-color painting, "Big Wheel Keep on Turning."

Jurist for the Regional Show was Joe Smith, member of the Art Faculty at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The show's 57 entries were contributed by artists from Bond, Clinton, Madison, Macoupin and St. Clair Counties, who had won first place in their respective county shows this spring.

Town & Country Art Shows are sponsored by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service through local planning committee and a dedicated network of volunteer workers.

Persons interested in helping with and entering their county shows in spring 1982 may contact their University of Illinois County Extension Adviser, Geraldine Bower, P.O. Box 427, Edwardsville, 62025 or call 656-8400.

Katie Watters earns volunteer award

"Katie did it," reads a button worn by St. Elizabeth Medical Center volunteer, Katie Watters of Granite City.

What Katie did was to become a recent recipient of the United Way's Voluntary Action Center, Mary Alice Messerly - Volunteer of the Month Award. Katie was selected as Volunteer of the Month of March 1981. She was nominated for the award by SEMC Adult Volunteer Co-ordinator, Becky Slate and was chosen from volunteer workers throughout the metropolitan area.

Some of the work Katie does includes: serving as a Board member for the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church for the past 21 years, where she assists in making decisions and plans for church activities. She also plays the piano for all church services as well as bakes, makes ornaments, knits and crochets baby items for church bazaars. In addition, Katie prepares complete oriental dinners for the church's women's groups.

Katie has also volunteered at SEMC since 1977, contributing more than 1,500 hours of service. Over the years, she has served as a receptionist and guide for special events. She has worked as needed in other areas, including the Information desk and Occupational Therapy. Katie also has helped with the training of volunteers in hospital departments in the Medical Center.

But the work Katie seems to enjoy the most is on the Maternity Floor where she works about 12 hours a week. "She's one of a kind," said Elizabeth Gramates, supervisor of the O.B. floor. "All of our volunteers are wonderful but Katie is just unbelievable."

Katie's dependability and kindness to others has won her the affection of her co-workers and patients. "She's always busy or looking for some way to help," said Dottie Caffrey, LPN. "We are lucky to have Katie, she always has a smile."

Katie is a very private person who avoids publicity. But because of her generosity, Katie is a special inspiration to those who come in contact with her. Although she has been a cancer patient, Katie is cheerful, never complaining and always willing to help. Many of the people who work closely with Katie feel the button, which was given to her during a celebration in her honor, is wrong. They say it should read "Katie Does It."

Interest costs still hampering metal industries

Concern over near-record interest rates dominated the responses of metalworking industry executives to the latest monthly survey of business conditions conducted by Metalworking News, a business newspaper. While metalworking business remained good in May, industry executives said they feared that commitments for future business are being cut back substantially, due in large part to the current high cost of borrowing.

The survey covers a broad range of manufacturing industries, including producers of capital equipment and of automotive equipment, as well as distributors.

Signs of a slowdown in the strength of incoming new orders appeared in a six-point drop in the percentage of metalworking executives reporting a rise in incoming orders, from 53 percent in May from 50 percent in April.

The latest survey also revealed several other trends:

— Price increases for materials and supplies appeared to be moderating in May, with 53 percent of responding executives reporting price increases in the month, down from 64 percent reporting price rises a month ago.

— Changes in inventory positions seemed to be evenly balanced, with the number reporting increased inventories in May, and those reporting inventory reductions approximately equal, at 36 percent and 38 percent, respectively.

— Vendor delivery schedules remained stable in May, with 72 percent of respondents reporting no change — either speed-up or slowdown — in the time it takes from placement of orders to receipt of goods.

How to save money on your grocery bills

Here are some important shopping tips

- 1—Check specials in food store advertisements.
- 2—Get to know the butcher and produce manager.
- 3—Find out when deliveries of perishables are made and shop on those days. Fresher foods last longer and consequently, you'll waste less.
- 4—Learn to estimate accurately the amounts of food needed. Keep a record of the amount of food you throw away in a week. It may alert you to ways you can reduce waste.
- 5—For economy and variety, use eggs, dry beans, and peanut butter in place of meat some of the time. These foods provide protein and most other nutrients that meat supplies.
- 6—Use nonfat dry milk, which is less expensive than fluid milk, at least part of the time in cooking and as a beverage.
- 7—By law, economy sizes of non-food items must save you at least 5% over other sizes of the same brand.
- 8—Try to shop as seldom as possible, preferably once a week.
- 9—Always shop with a well thought out shopping list. Try to base your list of foods on your menu for the week.
- 10—Take advantage of the special coupon offers going on at First Granite City Savings in conjunction with your local Schnuck's grocer.

Abduction attempt on elderly lady sparks plea for security

More security for elderly residents in Kirkpatrick Homes is likely to be the subject of talks between city officials and David Morgan, director of the Granite City Housing Authority, after an attempted abduction of an elderly resident of the housing project last week.

The topic was discussed by the Granite City Council Tuesday night after Alderman Casmer, Skubish contended that the elderly are concerned about their safety, "because they are helpless. Really helpless," he contended.

The latest incident which spurred concern was the case of a 70-year-old Kirkpatrick Homes woman who admitted a youth into her apartment June 17, thinking it was her grandson.

The youth struck her and tried to drag her to his auto. The woman screamed and the young man cut her on the throat with a knife before fleeing in his auto, which had the trunk open.

The woman did not require hospitalization. Based upon descriptions given to police, a composite drawing of the young man has been prepared. He is described as 17 to 18 years old, of average build, having short blond hair, light blue eyes and being about 5 feet, 4 inches tall.

He drove a white or off-white two-door small car, possibly a late 1960's Ford Falcon, which makes a rumbling noise while running. The auto has no ap-

SUSPECT SOUGHT in connection with the attempted kidnapping of an elderly Kirkpatrick Homes woman last week. parent trim and the license plates were either covered or absent, witnesses said. The rear windows were straight up and down and not slanted in, detectives were told.

Anyone knowing of a youth or car matching the descriptions given is urged to contact Detective Dave Ruebhausen at 876-9027 or the police at 877-6111.

Acquisitions by medical center called possible

St. Elizabeth Medical Center is in the market for hospital-related acquisitions and has been having increasing success in attracting medical staff members qualified in a wide range of specialties, Granite City Rotarians were told Tuesday.

SEMC Executive Vice-President Ted Ellerman said the 475-bed center (425 acute care and 50 psychiatric) does not seek to compete in such fields as open-heart surgery, treatment of burns, cardiac catheterization and kidney dialysis of which it well with the teaching hospitals in St. Louis.

But SEMC is becoming the Southwest area's 111-013 regional site of a large number of other specialists, aided by the proximity of St. Louis medical classrooms and by the availability of the Madison Avenue hospital which has become the Medical Arts Building, the club was told.

There are 37 physicians in office suites at the building, and six more suites are being created, Ellerman said. His remarks were accompanied by related photographic slides.

At one time considered for demolition, the Medical Arts Building was found to be in outstanding structural condition. This led to the decision to entirely revamp its interior, providing a vast amount of office space within a few feet of the hospital facilities, the speaker related.

Comparing 1970 and 1980, the number of patients admitted has grown from 13,723 to 15,106, with the average daily census rising from 255 to 328. Physicians on the staff have increased from 44 to 78 and employees have grown from 690 persons in 90 types of jobs to 1,250 in 200 categories.

Yearly expenditures have increased from $6 million ($16,000 a day) to $32 million ($87,000 a day) with 35 percent going to salaries and benefits.

The proportion of Quad-City residents has increased from 50 percent in 1970 to 66 percent in 1980. Chief financial problem was described as the unwillingness of state and federal programs to help pay full cost of hospital care.

Putting an extra burden on other patients and on other revenue-generating activities. And a growing proportion of local patients has hospital care financed by governmental aid rather than private insurance, it was noted.

A holding company structure is to be formed, including the not-for-profit medical center and a for-profit management and marketing services firm, Ellerman said.

SEMC is nearing the completion of another major expansion program, one of many carried out over a long period of years to provide the best quality of health care, the club was told.

The medical center is continuing its cost containment program and its charges are among the lowest of all non-tax-supported St. Louis area hospitals, Ellerman said. He explained that SEMC bills include pathology, anaesthesia and radiology, while some hospitals separate such bills.

Not only have many new sections been opened to the public in 1979, 1980 and 1981, but SEMC also has expanded the types of services which it operates or assists, Ellerman said. These include home health care, counseling, clinics, "mobile meals" and rehabilitation therapy.

A new chemical dependency recovery unit for confidential treatment of alcoholism will open July 1, and cardiopulmonary outpatient services will start in October, it was noted.

The speaker was introduced by Robert Harshany, Rotary President George Moore presided. Perfect attendance recognition awards went to George T. Wilkins Sr., 35 years, Donald Adams, 13 years, Richard Suss, three years, and the Rev. David Maxton, two years.

News notes

The Interstate Commerce Commission on Monday approved takeover of the Illinois Terminal Railroad Co. by the Norfolk and Western Railway Co. It rejected union requests for additional worker protection, and declined to review the purchase price. NW sought to purchase the 420-mile system from the St. Louis area to Springfield, Decatur, Champaign and Peoria to consolidate redundant facilities and operations. About half of the 60 current employees are to be laid off within six months, but NW says all but 20 will be rehired within six years, aided by attrition.

The first confirmed case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in Illinois this year has occurred in a 28-year-old Wayne County resident. Nine other suspected cases are awaiting laboratory confirmation. county has broken the promises Whittell has made to the people. "Now it appears that everything I have promised has been untrue because the county auditor and the assistant state's attorney," Whittell said.

He also objected to the county's attempts to use monthly treatment and sewer maintenance fees to make payments to the contractor. The sewers, S.M. Wilson & Co., saying he believes the sewer committee owes it to the people to see that the project is completed in a satisfactory manner before the contractor receives his final payment.

After Whittell walked out of the meeting, Smith reviewed the current financial status of the sewer district, which is deeply in debt to the county. Whittell has contended the debt is temporary and will be alleviated when the project is completed and the state releases the final five percent of the grant which was used to build the sewers.

Smith reviewed the county's position at length and said the increase in the monthly fee was necessary to put the district back on a sound financial tract.

There has been strong opposition to the monthly fee increase voiced by many residents of the sewer district, as well as by developers and realtors, who contend the excessive monthly charge for sewer service is making the areas served by the new sanitary sewers less attractive to buyers.

This morning, Whittell told the Press-Record, "You wouldn't believe the harassment I have taken this last week over this and I won't be a whipping boy for Pete Fields."

He contended the resignation was "The only thing I could do under the circumstances, because I think what they did is all wrong. It's a ripoff. It should never have been done."

"Really, Pete and Zeke sold that (rate increase) to the board. The board doesn't know better. We never intended to pay the contractor out of the monthly rate. He's paid from the bonds and the state grant money," Whittell stated.

He said he is afraid the finance committee is taking over the operation of the sewer district and will pay the contractor his final payment before many of the deficiencies in the program are corrected.

As chairman of the sewer committee, the only job I had was to take the harassment of the people," Whittell concluded. He said the reason he attended last night's meeting in person to read his resignation was to personally thank the members of the committee and the employees of the sewer district for the good job they did and the support they gave him.

CASH IS STOLEN
Harry McClure, 4039 Melrose Ave., told police Tuesday that approximately $440 in cash has been stolen from a wooden box in a bedroom dresser of his home during the last week. He said he discovered at 12:05 a.m. Tuesday that $240 cash was missing from the box. One week earlier, two $100 bills were missing, but he did not report it, because he thought he may have deposited the money in the bank, he said.

Police discovered pry marks around a window and said entry could have been gained through that window.

Gymnastics class offered at YMCA

A two-week gymnastics class will begin June 29 at the Tri-City Area YMCA. The class meets Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. It is taught by Debbie Olsen and offers instruction in tumbling, parallel bars, balance beam and vault.

For more information, Quad-Cityans may call the YMCA at 876-7200, or visit there at 2001 Edison Ave.

Deadline Friday for April 3 tornado aid

Persons who suffered losses in the April 3 tornado that swept through parts of Granite City and Pontoon Beach still may get retroactive assistance from the Small Business Administration, but applications must be filed Friday.

Tornado victims must fill out and submit forms that will be hand delivered earlier to all but five of the 102 Granite City residents whose property was damaged. The other five forms were mailed to forwarding addresses.

The information on the forms is necessary to prepare an appeal to the SBA seeking reconsideration of an earlier decision denying SBA aid.

Officials said a number of forms sent out have not been returned and that unless all tornado victims meet tomorrow's deadline, the chance of assistance will be lost to them.

Persons who no longer have time to mail the forms may call in the information to the Granite City Civil Defense office at 877-3157. If they prefer to take the information to the office, it is located on the lower floor of the Granite City police station.

Calls may be made until 3:30 p.m. today and Friday from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Anyone who has lost his original form may obtain a new one at the defense office.

Patriotism church theme Patriotism will be the theme Sunday at the Mount Zion Baptist Church, 21st Street and Benton Avenue.

The Sunday school and worship service will emphasize duty to God and country.

Persons attending the 9:45 a.m. Sunday school will be given an American flag pin.

Special events will take place following the theme of patriotism in both services.

Two charged in disturbance

David Lee Mack, 21, of 2710 State St., was released by Madison police on $100 cash bond after being charged with obstructing a police officer and disorderly conduct. He was arrested at Polish Hall, 826 Greenwood St., Madison, at 1:30 a.m. Sunday, June 21.

Also charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest was Rodney Gordon Reed, 27, of 4048 Gaslight Walk.

Reed was released on a notice to appear in court at 9 a.m. Friday, July 10 to answer charges.

Madison police were called to Polish Hall regarding a fight in progress. On their arrival the fight had broken up, but an unidentified man was lying in the doorway.

As police went to assist the man, Reed allegedly became abusive toward the police and was placed in the squad car.

Mack then allegedly tried to free Reed from the squad car and was placed under arrest.

Madison shopping center plans are undergoing change

By LISA LUTZ
Of the Press-Record

Specifications for the proposed city-sponsored shopping center in Madison will undergo a slight change, it was learned at the Madison City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Original plans were drawn about four years ago by Update, Inc., based on a lot 90 by 140 feet in size. The city has since acquired more property for the proposed shopping center and different dimensions are needed. A lot 100 by 120 feet in size will be used, it was noted. The preparation of the new plans will cost about $3,300, council member were informed.

The councilmen also approved a bid for soil borings for the shopping center grounds, to assure that it is proper for a foundation. Woodward and Clyde, a consulting firm, was the low bidder for the sampling of the soil. The firm submitted a bid of $2,000 for doing four or five samples.

City Comptroller Al Hudzik told the council members that if fewer samples are needed, he would negotiate with the consultants and possibly reduce the expense.

The council also approved utility pole use agreements with Illinois Power Co. for the hanging of lines for the city's cable television network, which will include fire and medical emergency alarms. The city will pay $5.50 per pole each calendar year.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. also agreed to allow the city to use poles and land easements for communication purposes only.

A combined cost of $15,466 will be charged to the city by the telephone and power companies for "make ready" work for the hanging of the cables.

Council members granted permission for Mayor Mike Sasyk and Hudzik to sign and negotiate a contract with the two companies. This is a further step in completing the cable television project in Madison.

A petition by the city to rezone the property on the corner of Third Street and Avenue for the shopping center will be placed before the zoning board, council members agreed. The property must be rezoned to a B-2 (business) status. A public hearing for the rezoning will be required.

The monthly police report for May was presented to the council members by Chief of Police Donald Bridick. It showed that overall crime in Madison has decreased 33 percent, compared to last year. Alderman Donald Donahue commended the police department for its efforts in this reduction of crime.

Policy enforced on graduation of class

Customary procedures were used this spring in conducting high school commencement programs, Granite City school officials said this week.

One of the GCCHS North students was not allowed to participate directly in the senior class graduation May 28 because he declined instructions to participate in a May 27 pre-graduation practice, authorities said.

However, the student was present as a band member. There was a general recognition of students' accomplishments, but no individual, verbal announcement of his name, it was related.

Those not taking part directly in the commencement did not wear caps and gowns and did not publicly receive diplomas.

All parties agree that the honor student had unusual achievements during his schooling here and that he has a bright future, including attendance at the U. S. Air Force Academy.

The family contends that an exception to the attendance rule should have been made, since during the portion of the practice missed the young man was fulfilling an obligation to be at his place of employment.

School officials say the attendance rule must remain mandatory.

A public relations

newsletter distributed by the school system near the close of the 1980-81 year includes a photograph of the student operating a micro-computer. The heading of the article is "Micro-computers turn on gifted students."

The article related that the student had become adept in writing his own programs on a micro-computer purchased by the gifted program. It stated he "personifies the pride we take in our human product."

His senior recognition day awards included outstanding musicianship, a state scholastic merit certificate, attainment of a scholastic average of "five points or above," a writing merit award and mathematics recognition.

It is being contended that the student was treated unfairly, in that waivers were granted to other students who missed part of the practice.

School officials say that, at the time he left the practice, the student was aware that leaving would result in forfeiting the right to participate, but that he persisted in his decision and left without permission.

The penalty did not otherwise alter his status as a member of the graduating class, school officials said.

The student viewed it as a choice between practicing shaking hands while accepting a diploma, or fulfilling his role as manager of a store which provided funds for his family. He said he tried unsuccessfully to obtain a replacement for himself at the store.

There is disagreement between the school and the student over whether the school offered an opportunity to have the senior class vote on whether he could participate in the ceremony. Seniors did vote on the other two students, who were allowed to participate.

At subsequent opportunities to "make amends" in time to participate in the ceremony, the student declined to do so, it is asserted.

The school said other seniors requested permission to miss the practice in order to work, and were not allowed to be absent, in accord with a long-standing policy.

McCullough was rearrested and a state charge of disorderly conduct was filed. He was released to his mother again at 1:32 a.m. Wednesday on payment of a $40 cash bond.

SEMC to open alcohol center

St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, will open its newest facility, Talbot Hall, a chemical dependency unit, on July 6.

The 20-bed unit provides hospital-based detoxification and treatment of persons suffering from alcoholism or dependency on other mood-altering drugs. The unit is patterned after the Hazen Foundation Rehabilitation Center in Minnesota, internationally recognized for its expertise and effectiveness in the treatment of chemical dependency.

Because it is known that substance abuse on alcohol or mood-altering drugs is an illness, not a crime, treatment is not a punishment. The day when people were thrown into the "drunk tank" to "dry out" are over. No one has to have convulsions or risk death to overcome chemical dependency, a hospital spokesman said. Modern detoxification or "drying out" is safe, comfortable and humane, supervised by skilled medical personnel, a spokesman said.

Talbot staff members have special training in the treatment of chemical dependency, with counselors receiving Hazen training prior to their work at Talbot.

Because the illness is complex, treatment involves a chaplain, psychologist, chemist, therapist and chemical dependency counselors. Each member of the team brings their expertise to rehabilitation planning, integrating social, emotional, physical and spiritual factors in an individualized treatment plan for each patient, it was noted.

The group setting, team members act as facilitators for peer counseling, as patients help themselves by helping each other. They develop relationships, help each other accept the reality of their illness and support each other's efforts to overcome the disease, it was said.

Program Director Paul Smith received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., studied at Gordon Conwell Theological Seminary in Beverly, Mass., and received his Master's of Divinity from Princeton Theological Seminary in Princeton, N.J.

After 20 years in the ministry, he studied clinical pastoral education at Abbot Northwestern Hospital. He received further training at the Hazen Foundation Rehabilitation Center in Minnesota, where he served as a staff chaplain.

Smith was clinical supervisor of the chemical dependency unit at Mercy Hospital in Council Bluffs, Iowa. Later, he became director of treatment at Edgemoor-Newport, a 160 bed treatment center in Newport, R.I.

Further information about the Talbot Hall rehabilitation program may be obtained by calling (618) 798-3089.

The child had been whipped with a belt for wetting the bed, the mother told police.

An officer reported the girl had visible "bruises" and photographs were taken.

Rutter had been arrested at 4:10 p.m. Monday on a felony warrant, alleging theft, and had appeared before a judge at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday. Bond was set at $2,000 and he was returned to jail pending transfer to Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

He was returned to court at 3:10 p.m. Tuesday on the charge of battery and an additional $102 cash bond was added to the original amount.

The child's mother said Rutter's wife, Rhonda, had agreed to care for her daughter when she went into the hospital Saturday, June 20.

Charge child was beaten

The mother of a 4-year-old Granite City girl alleged Larry J. Rutter, 24, of 2923 Buxton Ave., had whipped the child with a belt while she was being cared for by Rutter's wife at their home. The incident reportedly occurred Monday and the mother filed the report with police Tuesday.

In connection with the report, Rutter was booked on a state charge of battery while still in custody in the Granite City jail on a previously filed unrelated charge.

COMMISSIONED. David P. Hillis, right, of Granite City, receives his second lieutenant's commission, from Major Bill Gibson, ROTC instructor at Evangel College, Springfield, Mo. He was commissioned as a transportation officer.

Mayor freezes expenses

Telling City Council members that Granite City is faced with a financial dilemma that "we can solve," Mayor Paul Schuler, Tuesday night presented council members a prepared statement in which he recommended a freeze on expenditures, a cut in city employees and preparations to borrow money.

In his statement, the mayor said, "Granite City is now facing a financial crisis that is the result of the nationwide recession and inflation."

As a result of:

1. Loss of sales tax revenue because of lower spending.
2. Loss of motor fuel tax funds because of less gasoline purchases.
3. Reduction in property tax because of House Bill 1790 (which resulted in over 300,000 in lost revenue).

4. Increase in municipal employees salaries.

5. Increase in all fixed costs and

6. A delay of two months in collecting taxes on the county level.

We now need to borrow one million dollars and to also make provisions that the crisis is solved for the future. I, as mayor, am instituting a freeze on all city expenses as of now, and I recommend that the council consider the following recommendations:

1. Passage of ordinance to authorize anticipation notes.

2. Budget federal revenue sharing as soon as possible to meet June 30 and July payroll.

3. Breakdown forecast into 15-day segments for next three months.

4. Review of long term revenue projection (five years), cut overtime-hiring freeze, seminars, unnecessary expenditures, etc.

5. Hire a comptroller responsible to the City Council for accounting and financial reporting.

6. Sever a treatment plant review.

7. The imposition of a utility tax—either on industrial and commercial users or on all users—the rate to be determined.

8. I also reluctantly recommend the council to consider an across the board reduction in city salaries.

9. Increase in real property taxes.

We have faced problems in the past and together we have solved them and together we can solve these.

GC student receives lieutenant's bars

A Granite City student has received his U.S. Army lieutenant's bars after completing his ROTC training.

He is David P. Hillis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hillis, 2407 Illinois Ave.

A 1975 graduate of Granite City South High School, Hillis is majoring in Biblical studies and psychology at Evangel College, Springfield, Mo.

Second Lt. Hillis had served in the Army for four years and as a chaplain's assistant before going to Evangel. He achieved rank of cadet lieutenant colonel as the second ranking student in the Evangel-Southwest Missouri State University corps of cadets.

He received his commission as a transportation officer in the Missouri National Guard. Later he hopes to become an Army chaplain.

At the commissioning ceremony Maj. Bill Gibson, ROTC instructor at Evangel, commented, "In addition to all the work and dedication required of students, these have also completed requirements to be commissioned as lieutenants in the U.S. Army. While other students rested from their labor, these often rose at 6 a.m. to run in preparation for airborne or air assault training or to be at drill each Friday at 6:30 a.m."

"They endured the 100+ degree heat at Fort Riley, Kansas to learn tactics and leadership for six weeks of their summer. And finally they have volunteered to become a part of their nation's defense force."

Organ Pedalers entertained

Henry Coleman, grand pedaler, opened the June meeting of the AOA Organ Pedalers, held at 2100 Cleveland Blvd., where it was decided that the meetings will start half an hour earlier beginning with the July meeting.

The next meeting will be held July 20 with refreshments at 7 and business meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Eight volunteers will play at the Township Hall for the Happy Hour Senior Citizens on June 24 at 7 p.m.

The volunteers are Dorothy Alsop, Betty Applegate, Carolyn Belling, Helen Bowman, Liz Hughes, Diane Mason, Burel Schmisser, and Helen Testerman. Betty Applegate volunteered to make a banner to go on back of the organ with AOA Organ Pedalers on it.

Mary Metzger, of Our Lady of the Snows, and aunt of the guest artist, invited the club to play for them. This will be at a later date.

Burel Schmisser, sponsor-advisor, introduced Bob Metzger, of St. Louis, and he played requests on the organ for a couple of hours. Metzger kept the group laughing with his jokes and witticisms. He has been playing since childhood and is a not-notch entertainer, in his own right. Jeanne Dorsch, librarian, handed out I Love You Truly and You Tell Me Your Dream.

Hors d'oeuvres, punch and coffee were served to Dorothy Alsop, Henry Coleman, Helen Testerman, Jeanne Dorsch, Fern and Harvey House, Jeanette Pierce, Elizabeth Novack, Glen and Betty Applegate, Irvin Slate Sr., Irene Dawes, Diane Mason, Burel Schmisser, Carolyn Belling, Bob Metzger, guest artist and his aunt Mary Metzger; Mrs. Robins, of Our Lady of the Snows; Judy Whitt and Eric Smith, guests.

CREWS LIQUOR IT'S STILL QUICKER!

By MARK RESMANN
Angry residents from the area surrounding two holding ponds attended Monday night's Nameoki Township meeting to object to steps taken by the township to maintain the ponds, control mosquitoes and solve drainage problems that hamper the area.

One Stratford Lane resident said he had a body of water behind his house 1 foot deep and 22 feet in diameter.

Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelec said it would have been taken care of last week but rains postponed the work. "It will be backfilled with sand as soon as it gets dry enough," Mehelec said. Another citizen stood up and said filling the hole would only make things worse. He added that much more had to be done to solve the problem.

A woman, who declined to give her name, said the problem should have been taken care of in 1977 but never was.

"I just can't take it anymore," she said. "The mosquitoes are so bad I can't even let my kids play in the back yard."

Mehelec repeatedly said, "It'll be taken care of." That prompted Maryville Road resident Carl Focht to say, "It's the same old song. I had a problem six months ago and it never did get taken care of."

"You can find time to pump out your wheat field but you never have time to take care of the township," he said.

"I pay twice as much as you do in taxes," Mehelec said in defense. "If you're gonna get on my back let me get on yours," he said in a raised voice.

Briggs then stopped the argument saying nothing was being accomplished.

Trustee Joe Garcia said in Mehelec's defense that he, along with Mehelec and Mehelec's son, had been out all day Sunday opening up flood gates to prevent the township from flooding.

"That's what we pay you for," replied one resident. Mehelec later told The Press-Record that he wasn't draining his field but a drainage ditch that runs through his field.

Trustee Helen Hawkins said a program should definitely be started to take care of the drainage and mosquito problems in the township.

"There are plans on the drawing board," Briggs said. "But they'll be off the drawing board soon," he added.

Renew school fund levy

An annual resolution authorizing a levy to alter or reconstruct school buildings was passed by the Madison Board of Education last week.

Some of the schools may have to be altered to comply with existing fire codes.

The five-cent levy on each $100 assessed valuation must be renewed each year.

The levy is not new and has been on the school tax bill for several years.

The money may be used on improving certain areas of building to become more fuel efficient and safe from fire.

The school district receives between $10,000 and $20,000 a year; however, this does not come close to what is spent on the five buildings, according to a board spokesman.

As an example it was noted that when the board replaced the Harris school boiler it alone cost $8,000.

The money may also be used for any items that will make the building more fuel efficient, such as new thermostats, windows or caulking or insulation.

All things in the universe are in motion, according to the scientific principle of "creep," which is the downward motion of all weathered material on a slope. It may explain why some think that California will someday drop into the ocean and why the Grand Canyon may someday be desert dust. So, too, are concepts constantly in motion. Good and evil, for example, are subjective. Man wears good and evil in his personality in a manner that pleases him or does not cause him pain. Consequently, there are no absolutes. Good and evil depend on the individual.

Decisions and realities of life are often quite upsetting. When one experiences the loss of a loved one this is especially true. At such difficult moments the professional staff of MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES can be of invaluable assistance. Through our training and experience we can help you come to grips with the problems and decisions of the moment. In addition, we offer the physical surroundings of a facility that will reflect the respect, emotion and the decorum proper at such a time.

Pump station at Depot 'explodes'; cripples plant

EMERGENCY SITUATION. When the "deep hole" pump station at the Granite City Army Installation malfunctioned and "exploded" Monday afternoon, emergency steps were immediately taken by the installation personnel in cooperation with the city's fire and police departments to alleviate possible flooding of the Army installation and areas of the city and the contamination of the city's water supply. The city's wastewater treatment plant is totally dependent upon the Army-operated station to pump treated water into the Mississippi River when the river stage reaches 22 feet or higher. Clockwise from top right: three 6,000 gallons-per-minute pumps are used to lower the level of sewage which was being diverted to the 6,000,000-gallon stormwater treatment tank; emergency pumping operation is inspected by Lt. Col. Chester Tutor and officials of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency; a clock in the crippled pump station still shows the time the malfunction occurred. At left are some of the 63 windows which were blown out by the tremendous force; Lt. Col. Tutor, second from left, briefs IEPA officials, Nick Mahlandt, left, an environmental protection engineer, and Robert Schleuger, second from right, regional manager. At right is Monroe Brewer, city engineer; a maintenance worker measures a large, roll up type overhead door which was bowed outward by the extreme pressure of thousands of gallons of water which ripped a steel plate from its foundation and flooded the building. City police aided installation security officers in setting up a command post used to handle the numerous radio messages connected with the emergency. Granite City Fire Department personnel coordinated pumping operations with the Army installation fire department and were on the scene through Tuesday morning.

Triplets take it out on Trenton 8-4

By TERRY MACKIN of the Press-Record
TRENTON — Randy Cann stood next to the Triplets bench and stuffed his glove and spikes into a gym bag. His long-sleeved undershirt was drenched with sweat and his face was red from the heat. But as he looked up, he smiled broadly.

And he had good reason to. After a tough district loss to Alton Tuesday, the Triplets had just put another notch in the victory column, defeating Trenton 8-4 in a non-district contest here Wednesday. And it was Cann's neat, six-hit pitching that paved the way for the Triplets.

"My arm felt stronger as the game went along, but by the seventh, it was just kind of hanging in there," Cann said. "I guess the rest really helped me."

Cann, now 2-1, had not pitched in a week and a half, only because Manager Eldon Warfield feels that he is more effective after resting. "We have been bringing Randy along slowly, but I think he will be throwing alot more for us. This was his strong outing in a row," Warfield said.

But Cann was not the only hero in Wednesday night's victory. Second-baseman Danny Patterson refused to take any credit for the sudden turnaround of the Paddlers swim team, a trophy that hadn't rested in Granite City for over 13 years, and only twice in 25 years.

Defense rests as Alton dumps Tri-City

By PETE HAYES of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Tri-City American Legion manager Eldon Warfield might be shopping for a new baseball cap soon. If he throws and stomps on the one he has much more, there won't be anything left of it.

Warfield did more than his share of cap-stomping here Tuesday night in his team's 8-4 extra-inning loss to District 22 North Division rival Alton. His Triplets committed five errors. And each time, Warfield threw his cap a little harder.

"You just can't give away as many runs as we did tonight and still hope to win the game," said Warfield. "We're on an on and off team. We were off tonight."

The loss dropped Tri-City a game and a half behind first place Alton and into a virtual tie for second with Collinsville. A victory would have put the Triplets back on top all alone.

"A loss in a game like this isn't the end of the world," said Warfield. "I imagine the team that wins the division will have four or five losses."

Despite the poor defense by Tri-City, the Triplets were still in the game. In fact, they had a chance to win it in the seventh and in the eighth but fell just short.

The seventh inning rally by the Triplets produced the two game-tying runs they needed. Designated hitter John Linhart led off with a walk and Jeff Puryear went in as a pinch-runner.

Another walk to shortstop Kevin Sykes brought in Alton reliever Ned Schulz in for starter Gordon Green. Tri-

Dirt racers to be here

GRANITE CITY — The National Dirt Racing Association (NDRA) late model stock cars will run tomorrow night and Saturday night on the half-mile clay track at the Tri-City Speedway.

On Friday nights' schedule there will be qualifying with the fastest three qualifiers going into the main on Saturday night. The remaining cars will run a twenty-lap heat races with the first three cars in each heat race, will advance into Saturday night's main, making up a twenty-one car field. Qualifying will begin at 7.

On Saturday night a 50-lap consolation race will be run at 8 p.m. The first three cars out of the consolation race will be added to the 21 car field, that has already qualified. Immediately following the consolation race the NDRA Schlitz Pro-National 100-lap feature will begin. The winner will receive $5,000.00 for his win in the 100-lap feature. Total purse for the two day affair will be $50,000.00.

Last year's winner Rodney Combs of Lost Creek, W. Va., is expected to be on hand to defend his title. Along with Combs will be team drivers of Larry Moore of Ocala, Fla., and Buck Simmons of Baldwin, Ga., who will drive identical Camaros. Jerry Inmon of Bruce, Miss., will be driving a Corvette, will also be on hand along with St. Louis drivers such as Kenny Schrader, Kevin Gundaker and Gary Potter, and NDRA regular Freddy Smith of Kings Mountain, N.C.

The Triplets got the two runs back in the bottom of the fourth. Patterson led off with a double and was sacrificed to third by Ford. Dally then singled him home. First baseman George Jarvis reached base when Alton shortstop Ross Brakeville bobbled a ground ball. Dally went to second. When Buer reached base on a fielders choice, the bases were loaded. Green threw a wild pitch, allowing Dally to trot home.

"We came back twice," said Warfield. "But we shouldn't have had to either time."

missed a bunt on an attempted suicide squeeze, thanks to Trenton catcher Frank Colston, who threw the ball into left field. After Sykes struck out, John Vrenick walked, and then scored on a long double by Danny Patterson. Patterson was then gunned down trying to steal third.

EDWARDSVILLE — Celeste Sonnenberg is a very humble person. And it has to be hard. First year as coach of Paddlers swim team, she captured what most coaches only dream of — an undefeated season. EDWARDSVILLE — WANTED: Males. Age 18 and under. Interested in beating the summer heat. No experience necessary. We will train.

Paddlers diving coach Gail McCormick is confident in this years diving team. She just wishes that she had more bodies to work with.

"We do not have near as much depth this year as last year. Some kids just decided not to go out and others only had summer memberships last year. But all of the ones we do have out are pretty good," said the dark-tanned McCormick, smiling.

One may find it hard to comprehend how McCormick can smile when looking at the Paddlers roster. Of the five boys on the team, three are beginners.

But McCormick realizes that she just has to make the best of what she has.

"Last year, we were second in the conference, and most of our older girls in the 16 — 18 age group have returned. So I'm very optimistic about the season."

Gas Light of Collinsville won the S.W.I.S.A. conference championship last season. The top female returners to this year's edition of Paddlers diving are Lisa Lilley in the 15 — 17 age division and Cathy Zeugin in the 13 — 14 age division. Michael McCormick and Timmy Voyles, both in the age 11 — 12 division, are the top boys returning to the squad.

GUNNED OUT. Alton's Rusty Meyers (right) is out at the plate Tuesday night against Tri-City as Triplets catcher Daren DePew waits with the ball. Meyers tried to tag up and score on a flyball to centerfield, but was out when Tri-City centerfielder Bob Ford threw a bullet to the plate. It wasn't enough, however. Alton claimed an 8-4 extra-inning victory from the Triplets and took sole possession of first place in the District 22 North Division.

Kehoe would 'listen to what Steamers say'

By PETE HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — Bob Kehoe looked around him. He saw over a hundred young boys doing the thing he loves most — playing soccer. Kehoe, an instructor at this week's soccer camp at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville, is also head soccer coach at Granite City North High. He's also a former professional soccer player and coach. It's that professional experience that just might get him a shot at a new job — head coach of the St. Louis Steamers.

Kehoe, 53, was a former player and coach of the old St. Louis Stars of the North American Soccer League. And with the resignation late last week of Steamers head coach Pat McBride, the position is open. A search committee has been named to find a new coach. "I'd be interested in what they'd have to say," Kehoe said, taking a break from his soccer camp. "I'd definitely listen to what they'd say. But there would be several things to consider." Kehoe spoke candidly. "I left professional soccer with a bad taste in my mouth," he said. "I had explained to them (the Stars management) my program involving American players. I told them it'd take a good three or four years to get it all together. The first couple years, we'd probably get our heads caved in."

Kehoe was right. On all counts. The Stars went on an Americanization swing. Kehoe felt strongly that the American players should be given a chance to prove they could play with the foreign players that dominated the NASL.

"We went through some lean times the two years I was coach (1969 and 1970)," he said. "And after the second year just when we were beginning to hold our own against the foreigners, they fired me."

And, just as Kehoe had said, the program went as planned. At the end of the fourth year, the Stars showed their stuff. They advanced all the way to the NASL championship game (now known as the "Soccer Bowl") against the New York Cosmos, before falling 3-2. "The program went just as I thought it would," Kehoe said.

Ironically, the Steamers went all the way to the championship game of the Major Indoor Soccer League last season — against New York — in their second season of existence. And they used mostly American players. Mostly St. Louisians.

The MISL is devoted to the American players. And McBride, in his tenure with the Steamers, has shown himself to be devoted to St. Louisians in particular — just as Kehoe was with the Stars some ten years ago. McBride played both with and under Kehoe with the Stars.

"I think the MISL could go even farther in promoting the American players," said

Kehoe. "There are a lot of teams in the league that stretch the player-limit as far as they can. Some of the players aren't as American as they'd like you to think." Kehoe listed some things he'd think about before taking the job, which he emphasized has not been offered to him. "I'd have to consider the position I have now," he said. "It's a fairly secure position. I think we've built a good program at North. I really enjoy working the kids there. I enjoy what I'm doing, but I'm not sure I wouldn't enjoy coaching on a higher level again too."

Kehoe and McBride are close friends. And Kehoe thinks that might have been a problem should he be the next coach. "I'm friends with a lot of the Steamers," he said. "I was friends with ALL of the Stars, having played with them before I wouldn't, too. It could have been a personality thing there. I haven't talked with Pat about it since he resigned."

"Whoever takes the job will be in an unenviable position. They'll inherit a bad situation."

"First, the fans will compare the team with last year's. The only way the Steamers can improve in their eyes next year would be to win it all. Second, they'd compare whoever is the coach with Pat. How do you win a situation like that? But when a coach takes a job like this one, he can't be worried about things like that."

Kehoe mentioned something that could be a problem should he be the next coach. "I'm friends with a lot of the Steamers," he said. "I was friends with ALL of the Stars, having played with them before I was coach. It can be a problem. But since I've gone through it, I know I can handle it. Red Berenson's been able to do an excellent job in that regard with the Blues."

Kehoe mentioned another name the search committee might be interested in. "Al Trost would be a good choice, I think," Kehoe said. "He's a St. Louisian and is just about at the end of his playing days in the NASL. Trost plays for the California Surf, which is the old St. Louis Stars team that moved westward several seasons ago."

Kehoe feels that MISL is stable. "It's here to stay," he said. "The indoor game has all the things Americans like. Speed, scoring, excitement. And it's all comfortable indoors. You don't have to worry about the weather."

Moore surprised by move

EDWARDSVILLE — Belleville Area College head soccer coach Mike Moore has known Pat McBride for years. They were coaching rivals when McBride was head coach at Meramec. They have worked at the same soccer clinics and camps. They even played on the same indoor soccer team.

But Moore was just as surprised as the Steamers management and fans when McBride resigned as head coach of the Steamers last week.

"Like everybody else, I had no clues at all," Moore said. "Pat and I play on the same indoor team at Soccer for Fun, and we talk all the time. But this caught me by surprise."

Moore said that McBride showed no signs of unhappiness during the season or camp. "The only thing that Pat is ever concerned about during a soccer season is winning,"

Moore, who is also the manager of Soccer for Fun in Granite City, felt that McBride would be very hard to replace, but said that the new Steamer coach should come from the St. Louis area.

"The first name that comes to mind is Al Trost (currently playing for the California Surf of the NASL). His personality is similar to Pat's and his roots are in St. Louis," Moore also cited Granite City North coach Bob Kehoe as a qualified candidate for the Steamer post.

Moore also said that he would be willing to talk to the Steamer management if they approached him about the vacant position.

"I would entertain the thought but I am a happy man right now. I am not so sure that I would want the pressure."

O.A.T.H. back

BLOOMINGTON — Members of O.A.T.H. Inc. returned home after a successful trip to the 1981 Illinois Special Olympics.

Three athletes have won honors in their various events, and are now proudly wearing their medals.

Dewey Mays took first place in the 440 run, and fifth in the softball throw. Brenda Bird placed third in the 50 yard dash and fourth in the standing long jump. Pam Thomason placed first in the standing long jump and fourth in the softball throw.

Coaching the team were Wayne Johnson and Ella Miller, of O.A.T.H. (Organization for the Advancement of The Handicapped).

All of these athletes have just participated in the Illinois Special Olympics program, an athletic and recreational program for the mentally handicapped. After successfully competing in the local programs, they were chosen to represent O.A.T.H. Inc. at the 1981 Illinois Special Olympics.

Over 2500 participants were involved in the weekend program held at Illinois State University.

The Illinois Special Olympics Program included five official sports, a wide variety of educational and recreational clinics, and the colorful opening and closing ceremonies.

Athletes and chaperones were housed in Illinois State University dormitories.

GRANITE CITY — Sloba Iljevski, star goalkeeper for the St. Louis Steamers, will headline the Warriors' Kicker Camp this summer at Granite City South High School. The soccer camp for boys and girls ages 5 through high school.

Iljevski, a native of Yugoslavia, is a favorite of Steamers fans and helped lead his team into the Major Indoor Soccer League championship game this past season. Teammate Tony Bellinger may also make an appearance at the camp, but final details have not yet been announced.

The camp will be held June 29 through July 3 at Granite City South. Iljevski will appear Tuesday, June 30.

The fee for campers is $50 each. The fee includes a t-shirt, demonstrations on advanced soccer practice equipment, certificates, evaluations, chances for prizes and expert instruction from South coach Gene Baker and his staff. Others at the camp will be Rockhurst College head coach Tony Tocco and many former South players who now play in the collegiate ranks.

heroics in the seventh. Alton scored the winning run off Tri-City reliever Keith Burton. After coming on in the eighth inning and striking out the side, Burton had trouble finding the plate in the ninth. After a flyball to Daily in right opened the inning with an out, Burton walked three straight batters to load the bases.

Brakeville stroled to the plate and stroked a flyball to leftfield. Buer had trouble judging the ball off the bat and it sailed over his head to the fence. Two runs scored on the error. With runners on second and third, Scott Johns singled in the final two runs of the game.

Alton scored the winning run off Tri-City with a 6-2 District 22 record and a 10-4 overall mark going into Wednesday night's non-league game at Trenton (see related story).

by Harold Chitwood

Modern automobiles use a dual braking system with a separate system for the front and rear wheels. If the brake fluid escapes from one system, the car will still have brakes on the other. A dual system works generally like a single system except that it has two master cylinders. Also, in most modern autos, power brakes have become the rule rather than the exception. On cars so equipped, a special vacuum booster between pedal and master cylinder reduces the effort required to apply the brakes. Power brakes do not slow or stop the car faster than manual brakes, they simply require less foot pressure which makes for easier and safer driving.

If your brakes aren't working right you not only are jeopardizing the condition of your car but you are also putting your life and your family in danger. Whatever your auto's mechanical problems BIG 4 CHEVROLET COMPANY located at 1820 Vandalla Street in Collinsville can repair and correct them. Call us today at 345-5444 where we put your safety first. Our hours are Monday-Friday 7-6 and "One Great Team Behind Your Car" we welcome any questions and offer free service and body shop estimates.

AUTO TIP

Insure a more efficient braking system for your car by asking your service technician to check the level of the brake fluid in your master cylinder. Also check brake drums, linings or discs.

Rick Kortkamp steps back to wait for the late throw. Alton won 8-4. (Press-Record Photo by Ed Sade)

Each one of us has our own personal mountain. Some insurmountable problem for which there seems to be no solution. Some times we need help in order to prevail over these circumstances. And by having faith in God we have unlimited resources.

TALK TO YOUR MOUNTAIN

Some mountains won't go away if we just let them alone. We have to face our problems head-on. Running away from trouble doesn't change it or do away with it. We have to do something. The something that Christ told us to do is talk to your mountain! Say to the mountain, "Be thou removed and cast into the sea." We talk plenty about the mountains we have. We tell our friends, family, doctor, minister, but Jesus said to talk to your mountain!

GOD IS GREATER

Simply by following this teaching of Jesus you are acknowledging the power of God. You exalt God and God will exalt you. Nothing is impossible with God. Christ is our example in speaking to the mountains in our life. When He and his disciples were in a ship and the waves and wind were about to capsize them Jesus arose and spoke to the wind and to the sea, "Peace, be still," and there was peace! When a man full of demons came to Jesus, he said to the demons, "Come out of him," and the man was healed instantly. Jesus taught us to speak to our mountains.

THE MOUNTAIN HAS TO GO

By making an oral confession that God is going to move in our behalf, our confidence begins to grow. If we doubt not then we are going to have the things that we say. God is not going to let you down. He wants to give you the desires of your heart. Be positive and unwavering, and you shall have whatsoever you saith.

TODAY IS THE DAY

There is no point in waiting to deal with your problems. Start right now to take control of your situation. Open your mouth and say, "God is on my side and I cannot fail. God and I are bigger than this mountain. Therefore, this mountain has got to go out of my life. I've said it. I believe it. I do not doubt it. I thank you Lord, my answer is on the way."

Joint custody ruling nightmare to children

Children are not negotiable and their physical and legal custody, following a divorce, should not be divided between both parents, state two authors of an article in the Illinois Bar Journal.

"In the long run, the use of joint custody awards may produce greater and more long-lasting nightmares for the children and adults involved," concludes authors Babette Adler Levy and Carole R. Chambers, authors of the article, "The Folly of Joint Custody" in the monthly magazine of the Illinois State Bar Association.

Levy is a conciliator with the Domestic Relations

Division of the Cook County Circuit Court and Chambers teaches human growth and development at Mundelein College where she is chairman of the Department of Home Economics.

The authors contend that the use of the words "joint custody" violates the legal definition of custody and, furthermore, can be a denial of a sane environment for the children; they note that, in Illinois, custody is granted in the "best interest of the child."

Levy and Chambers advise against divorced parents sharing or alternating the legal and physical custody of children in the belief that a primary home with one parent having the authority to make decisions is essential to the environmental stability of the children.

"Children are then left hostage to the same divisions which existed in their parents' former marriage, now crystallized with focus on the children. The children may be the only remaining issue around which the parents may continue their battle in person and in court."

The court should not abdicate judicial, legal and parental responsibility by not clearly designating a parent with both legal and physical custody of the child, the authors say, but one can sympathize with judges, attorneys and legislators who wish to reduce the acrimony and court contests by considering joint custody.

Parental fitness is not determined by a custody award and the authors stress that no stigma should be attached to being a non-custodial parent. "An award of custody to one parent does not legally imply that the other is unfit! Both attorneys and psychotherapists need to help parents understand that custodial awards are for the benefit of the child and not the parents."

Rather, Levy and Chambers insist, co-parenting or joint parenting should be taken into practice, which they add, is sometimes incorrectly used synonymously with joint custody.

"A separate custodial and visitation order does not prevent their co-parenting," they write, but co-parenting allows parents who do not have custody to remain an active part of their child's life. Many share equal rights and responsibilities in decision-making and caretaking of their offspring, although the legal custody has been granted to one or the other parent.

The authors do not believe a moral agreement can be dictated by the courts or the legislature but maintain that they must provide a framework whereby the children and parents have the greatest opportunity to rebuild and function after the termination of the marriage.

"The parents who are morally committed to sharing the rearing of their children and emotionally able to co-parent will not require a joint custody order to do so."

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Reed
Reed-Grisham

Miss Carol A. Grisham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Grisham, of Eldorado, Ill., and Edgar D. Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Reed, 2245 Barn Ave., were united in marriage on June 20 at the First United Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. David Maxton officiated at a double ring ceremony at 5:30 in the evening, before an altar adorned with low floral arrangements of summer flowers and burning tapers in brass candle holders.

Nuptial selections were provided by Kathy Burns and Mike Grisham, a sister and brother of the bride, playing the piano and guitar, and Mrs. Isabel Schmidt, organist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a full length ivory Chantilly lace old fashioned style gown featuring an oval neckline and sheer yoke traced with a lace ruffle, etched with pearls, and long tapered lace sleeves.

Her skirt was enhanced with ruffles of crystal pleated rows on each side and a lace insert panel on both the front and back.

A Juliet lace cap, accented with pearls, secured her fingertip veil of bridal illusion, edged in matching lace. She held a colonial bouquet of pink rosebuds centered with lily of the valley and intermingled with trailing ivy.

Mrs. Burns, the bride's sister, served as honor attendant with bridesmaids dresses designed with cowl necklines, capelet bodices and pleated skirts.

Each attendant held long stem pink roses. Cindy Grisham was the flower girl and was dressed in a frock fashioned of pink border print organza with an empire waist. Pink lace trimmed the bodice, collar and sleeves and encircled the hemline. She also held long stem roses.

The groom chose David L. Mack, as best man. Jeff Shipp, Michael Reed, the groom's brother, Michael Grisham, a brother of the bride, and Clint Rhine, the bride's cousin, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Mrs. Grisham was attired in a long shell pink gown created with a V-neckline and chiffon flounce on the bodice which formed a softly flowing sleeve capelet.

The groom's mother appeared in a floor length silver silk knit dress enhanced with a high neckline traced with seed pearls and chiffon cape.

Both mothers wore pink rose wristlets. Michelle Reed attended the guest book at a reception held at Polish Hall in Madison.

Parents of the groom hosted a dinner at Rustio's Restaurant in Collinsville, following the church rehearsal, for members of the wedding party.

The newlywed couple took a wedding trip to Montauk State Park, Mo. Both young people graduated from North High School. The bride also graduated from Belleville Barber College and currently is an apprentice barber at Captain's Clipper. She also belongs to Barbours Local 483.

The groom works through Laborer's Local 397.

Bethel hosts 'Hobo Night'

Members of Bethel 43, Order of Job's Daughters, dressed in hobo attire Tuesday evening in keeping with the theme for the meeting held at the Masonic Temple.

During the business segment the girls agreed to have a rock-a-thon for the supreme guardian's project. The project is a large bathtub which they use to treat burn victims in the Philippines.

It is comparable to having a hospital in the community here and this will be the second one sent to the Philippines, it was announced.

Also discussed were plans to sponsor a tag day to raise money for new paraphernalia for the Bethel. In other business, members made plans to adopt secret fathers from the Masonic Fraternities, who will be sent cards and gifts for the next five months ending with a special meeting inviting them to meet their "secret daughter" on Oct. 27.

The librarian, Rhonda Baker composed and read a report entitled "Hobo's of 43."

After the meeting a "feast for hobo's" including a gelatin dessert prepared in cans with cookies was served. Favors were small frying pans made from bottle caps with felt eggs and a black pipe cleaner for the handle.

Mrs. Corbitt honored

Mrs. Ruby Corbitt was honored during the weekend on the occasion of her retirement from the Granite City Senior Citizens Center at the township building, 2060 Delmar Ave.

A retirement dinner party was hosted at the center with more than 135 senior residents attending.

Mrs. Corbitt retired June 19 after working for the past seven years in programs involving senior residents, including providing assistance to those completing "circuit breaker" applications.

A potluck chicken dinner was served with the entree provided by Kentucky Fried Chicken and the guests furnishing salads and desserts.

Among those present were Mrs. Corbitt's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Corbitt.

In honor of his mother, Corbitt played the guitar and sang several selections.

Recitations were presented by Carrie Hart and Juanita Crawley, also complimenting the retiree.

The remainder of the evening was spent socially. Mrs. Corbitt plans to remain active in several senior citizens groups, she reported.

Reception to honor newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Norman G. Gardner Jr., 2770 Nameoki Drive, will host a reception to honor their son and daughter-in-law, Second Lieutenant and Mrs. Barry Gardner on Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. in their home.

Li Gardner and his wife, the former Melanie R. Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Williams of Colorado Springs, Colo., were married on May 30.

Jennifer Wortham marks birthday

Jennifer Lynn Wortham celebrated her seventh birthday at a party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wortham, 2596 Boyle Ave., in the basement recreation area.

After the honoree opened her gifts, the guests retired to the patio for games in keeping with the roller skating party theme.

Each one received a prize and were served refreshments. The cake was decorated with a frosting roller skate emblem as were all table appointments. The party concluded with all entering into water balloon races.

Guests included Shelly Wilbur, Matthew Stearns, April Polivick, Dionne Reeves, Tonya Miller, Maria Kozielek, Jennifer Bowman, Athena Harris, Cheryl Forbes, Larry Jo Curry, Scott Simon, Charsin Tully, Shannon Marcum, Jennifer Guzy, Shanna Cairns, Amy Wall, and Brian Alan Wortham, brother and grandmother of the guest of honor.

Farmers must report acreage for insurance

Farmers participating in the all-risk Federal Crop Insurance program for 1981 spring crops (corn, soybeans, and grain sorghum) must report their acreage to the corporation by June 30. "Insurance attaches," says Regional Director Leo F. Crawford, "at time of planting." Therefore, insured farmers must report the exact number of acres planted to receive full insurance protection on their crops.

Any acreage that has suffered damage will still be protected by the all-risk crop insurance if reported by June 30. "We cannot provide insurance protection for damaged crops reported after the deadline set by the corporation," reminds Crawford. Insured farmers need to contact their local insurance agent or FCIC representative as soon as possible.

and the Emergency Preparedness award. Other Scouts receiving awards were: John Daugherty, Tenderfoot pin, First Aid merit badge and the Emergency Preparedness award; Paul Glass, the Second Class badge, certificate from a first aid course and the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce clean-up emblem.

Dan Whiteside and Bernie Daugherty were both awarded their Tenderfoot Scout pins along with the Emergency Preparedness award and first aid certificate. Belleville Area College will be tuning into a whole new group of students this fall when it moves the classroom into the home.

Television courses in data processing, psychology and history will create an opportunity to earn college credit for those who have commitments at home, cannot afford travel or babysitting expenses, or have work schedules that prohibit enrollment in traditional classes.

"There are a lot of people in situations who simply can't drop what they have and come out to the campus and take a class," BAC data processing instructor Donald Distler said. "So they can take a course on TV and decide if college is something they want to pursue."

Distler is one of three instructors who will answer questions and test students on material presented in the nationally produced videotapes.

Registration is under way for the courses at the BAC main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville. Phone registration will be July 20 through Aug. 7, at 235-7900.

For information about the telecourses, Quad-Cityans may call 235-2700, extension 200.

The courses to be offered on TV include introduction to data processing, general psychology, and Japanese. All are comparable to courses offered on the BAC campus.

Students in the data processing class will view 14 half-hour programs entitled "Making It Count," produced by the Educational and Training Division of Boeing Computer Services Co.

The survey of the computer in informational systems covers the need for data processing, development of computers, components of computer systems, and the impact of computers on business management.

The television course will include programs on information representation, fundamental computer elements, introduction to programming, computer operations centers, file handling in batch processing systems, additional basic capabilities, computer language comparisons, system analysis, on-line programming, and multi-programming. Three hours of college credit will be given for the course, which will be broadcast at 6:15 a.m. Tuesdays, Sept. 15 through Dec. 8, on KETC-TV, Channel 9.

The programs will be rerun at 8:30 a.m. Saturdays, Sept. 19 through Dec. 12.

Copies of the videotapes also will be available at BAC for students to view missed lessons or review them.

The general psychology course, "Understanding Human Behavior," is produced by Coast Community Colleges of California.

Dr. James McConnell of the University of Michigan, author of the textbook used for the course, will present the taped lectures, which will introduce students to facts and scientific principles of psychophysical activity in human behavior.

Topics will include the role of heredity, maturation, environment, behavioral development, sensory processes, perception, learning, memory, and adjustment and maladjustment.

"It's a valuable course for anyone as far as understanding themselves and others," Miss Helene, its BAC instructor, said.

Twenty-four half-hour programs will be aired at 6:15 a.m. Wednesdays and Fridays, Sept. 16 through Dec. 4, on Channel 9. Tapes will be rerun back-to-back at 7:30 and 8 a.m. Sundays, beginning Sept. 20. They also will be available at the BAC campus.

Three hours of college credit will be awarded for the course.

The third telecourse, "Japan: The Living and Changing Tradition," will cover Japanese history from the initial Shogun Period (663-868) through the country's first contacts with Europeans in the 1500s and up to the present.

The course emphasizes economic, political, and social developments and explores contemporary issues in these areas.

Half-hour programs are prepared by the University of Mid-America in Lincoln, Neb.

Topics will include the feudal experience, visual arts, literature, performing arts, religions, the Meiji Period (1868-1912), the Taisho and early Showa periods, modern Japan and patterns of life.

It will be broadcast at 7 a.m. Tuesdays, Sept. 1 through Dec. 8, on WSTU-TV Channels 8 and 16. Two half-hour programs will be shown back-to-back each Tuesday.

The programs will be rerun twice a week at 7 a.m. Thursdays, Sept. 3 through Dec. 10, and at 2 p.m. Saturdays, Sept. 5 through Dec. 12.

"The TV courses are an exciting addition to our curriculum," said Lloyd Gentry, BAC director of instructional services and coordinator for the courses.

"They will help us reach more people in the district we serve."

The courses are not designed to replace those offered at the main campus and extension centers, but to attract new students, Gentry said.

For some, it may serve as an introduction to college or a vocation they wish to pursue, he added.

Although the courses are new to BAC, they have proved successful around the country.

BAC joins St. Louis community colleges in offering data processing and general psychology with the Missouri schools have offered for several years.

Japanese history will be offered in cooperation with other southern Illinois community colleges, including Jonathan Logan and Kaskaskia.

Tuition will be $17 per credit hour or $51 for each telecourse. This is the same amount charged for on-campus courses.

Additional TV fees of $15 for data processing and $20 for psychology will be required. There is no TV fee for Japanese history.

Those enrolling in telecourses who may qualify for veterans' benefits should talk to the Veterans' Service office at the BAC campus before registering, Gentry said.

Telecourse students receive the privileges of regular, full-time, on-campus students.

PROBATION ON THEFT OF RAIL PROPERTY

Clarence H. Hoffman, 38, of 2137 Alton Ave., Madison, has been placed on two-year probation by Circuit Judge A. A. Matoesian for a Dec. 30, 1980, felony theft.

The charge was filed by railroad police.

Desegregation meeting today

A Madison School District hearing on a desegregation plan for kindergarten to third grade students at Blair and Harris schools will be held by the Madison School Board at 7:30 p.m. today.

The special meeting of the board will be held at the board office, 1707 Fourth St., Madison.

The district must file a desegregation plan with the Illinois Office of Education's Equal Educational Opportunity section, by July 1.

Two such plans have been suggested by an advisory committee, but the board is seeking public input on the proposals before it makes a decision. Two public hearings were held earlier.

Postal workers picket

Members of the two Granite City local unions, the American Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers, were to picket today in front of the Granite City Post Office. The picket line is to bring public attention to the union's nationwide labor dispute with the U.S. Postal Service.

On April 22, the scheduled date for the beginning of contract negotiations, the Postal Service refused to sit down at the bargaining table with national leaders of the APWU and NLC. On June 16, the Postal Service was ordered by the full board of the National Labor Relations Board to sit down at the bargaining table and negotiate. The present Labor Agreement covering some 60,000 postal workers throughout the country will expire at midnight July 20.

John Serich, president of local 1132, National Association of Letter Carriers AFL-CIO, and Birkie Hillis, president GEM and one of the 20 largest unions in the AFL-CIO, in a statement today, said:

"We want the public to know that all the two major postal unions are asking for is a fair and workable contract. The public has a lot at stake in this matter. The U.S. Postal Service is by far the most productive in the world, and as postal workers, we are proud of that fact. However, the Postal Service has an obligation to bargain with the authorized representatives of its employees in order to preserve labor-management relations.

"It is not only unfair to us, but it is unfair to the American Public to do otherwise."

Both unions are committed to improving what already is the most productive Postal Service in the world. They are, concerned that postal management's actions and lead to a decline in the quality of service provided the American public.

The two unions will be engaging in nationwide "informational picketing" in front of postal facilities throughout the country today, because they believe it is critical that the American people be told the true story of the stalled postal negotiations, union leaders said.

The American Postal Workers Union, AFL-CIO, represents employees of the U.S. Postal Service who work inside Post Offices and large mail processing facilities. With 320,000 members, the APWU is the world's largest postal union. The National Association of Letter Carriers, AFL-CIO, its members work in four crafts: clerk, maintenance, motor vehicle division and special delivery messenger division, it was noted.

Rally June 30 for ERA vote

Over 170 noontime rallies will be held around the country on Tuesday, June 30, the National Organization for Women has announced.

The ERA Countdown Rallies will mark the beginning of the final year's campaign to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment. Three more state legislatures must ratify the amendment by June 30, 1982, for the provisions of the article to become law.

As part of the national ERA campaign, the Illinois National Organization for Women is sponsoring a countdown Rally at the state capitol in Springfield at noon on June 30.

"These rallies will be, in their totality, the biggest single event ever in support of women's rights," said Eleanor Smeal, National NOW president.

"We have designed them as the kickoff to our ERA Countdown Campaign and to send the message that the final year of the ERA ratification campaign will culminate in the largest single movement for women's rights in history.

"We will not let a single politician doubt whether the majority of the nation stands on women's equality. We won't give up—in spite of the Reagan administration's opposition to women's rights, in spite of those who would force women back into the 19th Century."

Illinois NOW President Sheila Stoll Clark added, "What will happen if the ERA is not ratified is that equality of rights under the law will be denied on account of sex. We cannot allow June 30, 1982, to become a day known for denying women equality."

ERA supporters say they have been bolstered by national polls which indicate continued and increasing strength of support for the amendment. An example is a Time magazine poll which shows the public supporting the Equal Rights Amendment by a 2-1 margin.

The National Organization for Women has also experienced an unprecedented growth since November, with new memberships increasing at nearly triple the previous rate," Eleanor Smeal said. The text of the proposed Constitutional Amendment is:

"Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

"The Congress shall have the power to enforce, through appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article."

"This amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification."

by GEORGE CREWS

If it seems every wedding dinner is the same as every other, and if you have such an occasion coming, and would like something different, enjoyable and elegant, try serving your guests strawberries amaretto for dessert. What could be more appropriate than a seasonal fruit served with the "liqueur of love"? Fill champagne glasses with whole, hulled, fresh strawberries. Sprinkle with toasted almonds, then pour a quarter cup of amaretto over the strawberries in each glass. For another interesting desert made amaretto, arrange several thin slices of fresh pineapple on a desert plate, surround with grated coconut and sprinkle with several tablespoons of amaretto. Amaretto can be used in combination with a variety of fresh fruits and is, certainly, a most appropriate and delightful finishing touch to any wedding dinner.

Tabled housing standards document not the best way to upgrade health, living conditions in Granite City Should government "get off the people's backs"? Yes, to an extent. And because this is so, Granite City municipal officials are wise in moving on the idea of enacting tight new occupancy permit and inspection regulations.

Slums are bad, slum landlords are bad people and, therefore, government should crack down on them, it is reasoned by some people. But if this is done, it needs to be accomplished in a way that truly benefits the public and the community.

Government should not "look the other way" when problems develop. Nor need it do so in this instance; there are a lot of tools with which to attack blight and conditions that affect health and sanitation.

But we seriously question whether the City Council should enact the tentative ordinance that has been drafted for preliminary study.

There are differences of opinion over whether it ever reached the status of a "proposed ordinance." But it exists and was actively discussed before being tabled (deferred) at the June 16 aldermanic meeting.

The title is "an ordinance regulating the use of and providing minimum standards for housing within the City of Granite City."

Article I presents the intent and purpose, applicability, interpretation, reference to conflicting regulations, and rules and definitions.

Article II gives general requirements relating to the safe and sanitary maintenance of parts of dwellings and dwelling units.

Article III contains space and occupancy requirements, while Article IV lists minimum requirements for light and ventilation.

Article V gives minimum standards for basic requirements and facilities, Article VI administrative and enforcement provisions, Article VII Board of Appeals procedures, and Article VIII the effective date and separability.

Visits to big cities impress one with the high cost of merely existing. Property acquisition or rental costs can be awesomely large, even for those with some limited income, or persons unemployed or underemployed.

Both in metropolitan areas with rent controls and without, there are situations in which apartments and houses in poor condition "cost a leg and an arm" to occupy.

Dwelling units here are not as expensive, fortunately. Many are in good condition but, unfortunately, many are not.

Some problems stem from penny-pinching property owners who do not want to, or feel they cannot afford to, finance extensive repairs and modernization.

Some problems result from tenants' lack of adequate care of the facilities, including instances of outright vandalism by the renters. Burglars also damage apartments.

"Do-it-yourself" individuals and families often are able to improve their home or apartment, if allowed time to do so. Of course, not all people are so inclined or so skilled. And conditions in the meantime could be harmful to young or old people within those households, as well as jeopardizing the appearance and safety of neighboring property.

It is clear that there is a proper role for government to play in assuring a reasonable quality of life within a neighborhood or city.

Illinoisans nevertheless cannot forget Chicago newspaper disclosures and the "60 Minutes" television coverage of Chicago's area health, sanitation, mechanical and safety inspectors, some of whom wanted to be paid off and had no concern at all for consumers' and citizens' well-being.

This is probably an exception and should not be given undue weight in deciding how to proceed in coming years in Granite City. We certainly do not suggest that it would be a problem in Madison County. But some American communities have found it similarly oppressive when their agencies are pursuing ethical and legal goals, such as regulating safety and simultaneously producing fees for legal services.

"Big Brother," big government, can get a mighty iron-handed grip on one's lifeline, and "breathing room," one's ability to make meager financial ends meet. And this can be true even when all parties have the best of intentions.

A Forum letter received for today's issue notes that many apartments are rented for only brief periods, such as one or two months. A $5 occupancy permit and $25 inspection fee could create long delays, judging by the attendance at certain other boards.

Nor can the general level of diligence, consistency and thoroughness and competence displayed by city inspectors across the nation be held up as a confidence builder when visualizing how the new system might work.

It has been pointed out that a somewhat similar ordinance already is on the books in Granite City, although not fully implemented.

But the new wording that has been discussed does contain more "teeth." And it does continue or establish requirements in fields that the city government obviously ought not enter.

If what has been drafted is a "model ordinance," the example selected was not the best. The model is too dictatorial, too costly.

Legal experts appropriately try to take account of all the possible ramifications. They try to word potential laws with such thoroughness that all doubts are removed, all loopholes avoided.

But the net result of their all-encompassing verbiage can be "red tape" that is so encircling, so stifling, that "the patient dies" even if the remedial approach is largely sound.

Most statements in the housing document, viewed singly, seem logical and sensible. Not all of them do, however. And the overall impression could be bigger than the individual parts of the ordinance.

A number of the dimensions, refinements and accessories mentioned, while desirable, just don't seem possible to meet when superimposed onto an already-built residential area that includes structures erected at the turn of the century.

The ordinance could give officials vast power over many families, to be exercised more or less at the whim of the officials. Whether or not administered responsibly and with compassion, this would not be ideal.

Authority to prevent utility connections and to "enter any dwelling, dwelling unit, multi-family dwelling, rooming house, or premises" is an extreme vesting of power in the hands of a few persons over many thousands of people whose only "crime" was the wish to live within the boundaries of Granite City.

There already are ways to condemn property, leading to a building being physically dismantled, and also ways to "get tough" with property owners in less drastic ways than demolition.

We believe it might be best for the city government to embark on an effort to upgrade living conditions without actually adopting a new housing standards law at this time.

If this approach is followed and proves ineffective in a few respects, then those remaining deficiencies can be dealt with through a new ordinance.

Many would then favor adoption of an ordinance that is somewhat more restrained—and more accurately targeted at genuine problems—than the one that is currently being studied.

problem, I think that to not know what bills had or had not been paid goes far beyond confusion.

If there is not a system in Mr. Petrillo's department to keep track of these bills, then perhaps such a system should be instituted.

In light of these financial developments, I think that someone should tell the people of Granite City just how much money is being paid to whether or not some bills had been paid, and that was attributed, at least in part, to Mr. Petrillo's hospitalization.

Proposed inspection fees would curtail availability of apartments

To the Editor:

Would you please publish my comments on the new occupancy permit plan our city is trying to impose upon us.

I, for one, would have to quit renting my places. My places are furnished, and sometimes tenants stay only one month.

How could anyone afford these fees every month? If the inspector wants to inspect my places and earn the salary he already gets, fine!

My insurance company inspects my property and finds it in excellent condition.

Alderman Fisk says New York City already has this housing law. I received a letter last week from a friend in New York who was looking for an apartment for her mother.

I would like to quote a part of what she wrote: "It was beyond belief. Upstairs, by a very narrow stair, the first thing I saw was that the apartment door had a big wide crack across the whole width of it."

"In the apartment was the filthiest bathroom I ever saw."

"The toilet had no lid and there was no wash basin. The paint was peeling from the ceiling and the walls."

"There were no floor coverings. There were broken windows, taped with black tape."

"The kitchen had a greasy stove and a refrigerator that one would have to use a putty knife to scrape the fill off, and the door latch was broken."

"The dish cabinet had no glass doors, but the glass was broken out."

"There were electric wires running all over the walls."

"This was an unfurnished apartment. The rent was $175 per month, plus utilities."

Now, I don't believe there is a house in Granite City in this condition.

We have renters who leave a house in bad shape, but it is cleaned and repaired before we rent it again, or at least my places are.

Disability advocacy in jeopardy

To the Editor:

Services for handicapped children and adults are important, and our group has been providing valuable assistance for the past three and one-half years.

Unfortunately, against this year, the Thompson administration is putting IDAA (Illinois Developmental Disabilities Advocacy Authority) out of business. Why?

Probably because we have been too aggressive, independent advocates of the rights of handicapped children and adults, and probably because it is more convenient for the governor's staff not to have to deal with us.

If the governor succeeds, we won't be around after July 1, and that means:

1. No more independent advocates on the grounds of our state institutions like Dixon, Lincoln, Anna, Murray, etc.

2. The hundreds of developmentally disabled children and adults and their families who depend on us for protection and advocacy program serving all developmentally disabled children and adults and their families.

families we help each year will be without the services of an independent advocate.

3. The information and training sessions we have provided to thousands of people in the past three years will no longer be provided.

Our newsletter (The IDAA Advocate) which provides invaluable information to more than 10,000 people will no longer be published.

5. There will be no independent person to monitor the performance of state agency service providers. The list could go on, but you already know how important our services are. We have provided direct advocacy assistance to many of our clients.

The governor's office is attempting to rid the state of IDAA and that is a shame. But they will succeed unless we do something about it.

If you believe IDAA is important and needs to be continued for the protection of developmentally disabled children and adults, you must tell the governor so.

1. Write the governor immediately and tell him that IDAA is important and must be continued. Tell him you want him to do whatever is necessary to see that IDAA continues. Write: Governor James Thompson, Springfield, Illinois 62706.

2. Write or call your state legislators and tell them you want IDAA continued. Write: Senator or Representative, State Capitol Building, Springfield, Illinois 62706.

The situation for us looks very grim this year. The more successful we are in our mission, the more important it becomes for the state to get rid of us. Without everyone's help, IDAA will surely die this year.

Gun laws have a domino effect

To the Editor:

New Jersey State Senate President Joseph Merlino, who made a statewide handgun ban proposal a major part of his campaign for governor, was decisively beaten in the June Democratic primary.

Merlino finished fourth, more than 80,000 votes behind winner U.S. Rep. James Florio, Rep. Florio, who received more than 157,000 votes, had been endorsed by the National Rifle Association.

Merlino's defeat was a proper and accurate measurement of where Garden State residents stand on handgun prohibition.

The fact-out oppose it. Merlino has often attacked the NRA for its opposition to restrictive gun laws, and the NRA is a "front" subsidized by gun manufacturers.

We represent people, not industries, and the people have obviously let Merlino know that they don't want him as governor, nor do they want him infringing on their right to own guns or to hunt.

In March, Merlino introduced a bill in the New Jersey Senate seeking to ban the future sale, transfer, or private possession of handguns in the state.

He described it as "the most comprehensive handgun bill this state and, in fact, this country, has ever seen," and said he hoped it would inspire similar bans in other states.

Despite support from incumbent Governor Brendan Byrne, and the national publicity the bill generated, it gained little support in the Senate and Merlino withdrew it until after the gubernatorial primary. He nevertheless campaigned heavily for the gun ban in his bid for the Democratic nomination.

After his primary loss, Merlino again submitted the bill but, failing to draw enough support to bring it to a floor vote — he withdrew it on June 15.

Rotary district assembly here

The Quad-City area will be the scene of a Rotary District 646 assembly on Saturday.

Reviewing plans for the gathering during Tuesday's Granite City Rotary luncheon, Darryl Slater related that officers of clubs throughout Central Illinois, including the Peoria area, will meet at Granite City High School North.

Registration is set for 8:30 a.m. Saturday and there will be talks by Rotary district leaders, including Bill Masters of Havana, 1981-82 district governor.

Group sessions will precede a noon luncheon at the school, and there will be a general meeting at 1 p.m.

Slater will lead a district assembly meeting on club service.

Other topics Saturday will include community service, international service, vocational service and public relations.

Reports will include a talk by Donald Schneider of Granite City on the district's youth exchange program, in which high school students spend a year in a foreign country.

Further plans will be made for a visit by young businessmen of District 646 to Belgium next year. A group of Belgians spent more than a month here and elsewhere in Illinois this year.

Court backlog grows in May

The backlog of cases pending in Madison County Circuit Court grew by 742 cases during May, but many of the time-consuming major cases were disposed of, according to Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell.

In reviewing the monthly report from the Illinois Supreme Court on the flow of cases in the division, Portell noted that there were 5,399 cases filed and 4,857 terminated in the circuit.

The only loss of currency was in the traffic division where 800 more cases were terminated than were filed during the month. However, all other categories gained in backlog, including law, felony and misdemeanor cases.

Following are, in order, the numbers of new cases filed in May; the number disposed of; and the number pending at the end of May for each category.

TYPE	Filed	Terminated	Pending
LAW CASES SEEKING $15,000 PLUS
Jury	56	77	1,447
Non-Jury	29	10	785
LAW CASES UNDER $15,000
Jury	1	23	537
Non-Jury	42	56	1,042
OTHER CASES
Chancery	28	21	401
Mis. Remedy	31	25	419
Emin. Domain	14	2	13
Mental Health	47	9	9
Divorce	159	162	1,116
Family	59	26	2,022
Felony	47	83	377
Misdemr.	310	368	1,910
Small claims	454	367	1,399
TOTALS	1317	1306	11,659

The report also notes that of the 94 felony cases terminated during the month, 46 were not convicted of a felony, including 29 dismissed, 11 reduced to misdemeanors, and six acquitted of the felony charges. Forty-six cases ended in guilty pleas during the month and two others were convicted during May. Of those sentenced during the month, 16 were sentenced to imprisonment and 32 were given probation or conditional discharges.

Area farms harvesting sweet corn

Area Garden Adviser

Commercial sweet corn growers in the American Bottoms have started harvesting sweet corn.

Many gardeners are doing the same thing if their early varieties were planted in early April. The best of the early varieties include Sundance, Spring Gold and Earlielle, but many others are in the 64 to 72 day season.

(The Illinois Crop Reporting Service says corn is 94 percent planted.)

Main season varieties such as Gold Cup, Gold Winner, Golden Bantam, Bellringer, NK199 and other 78 to 82 day corns will follow shortly. These are higher in sugar and are better for processing than the early varieties.

Some other good eating varieties are Silver Queen, Bi-Queen, Sugar Loaf, and Honeycomb. But there are many varieties that taste good when picked and eaten fresh.

For the best eating, corn should be cooked as soon as possible after harvesting. If cooking is delayed, refrigerate the corn to retain quality.

Many nut trees growing in home plantings are seedlings that grew from seeds or from transplanted seedling trees. Even though the seedling trees may be 10 to 15 years old or older, they have not produced nuts.

Tree owners who desire a crop from these trees should look closely at the tip ends of branches. This is where the blossoms and the nutlets (female flowers) can be seen.

On some trees, there may be bloom and nuts develop. However, due to incomplete pollination or insect damage, the fruit may drop.

No blossoms or fruit (nutlets) is an indication that the tree likely will not bear or may bear inconsistently. Varieties that bear good nuts can be grafted on these trees by the devoted hobbyist.

If the nutlets drop soon after bloom and before they enlarge, then a second tree should be planted or a limb of the tree grafted for pollination.

The second variety should be one that sheds pollen from the catkins when the first tree is blooming.

Look for insect damage (pinpoint-size holes) on the small nuts that drop from the tree.

Pecan casebearers sting the small nuts, causing them to drop. This usually happens in May. Insecticides (Sevin or Malathion) will help control the casebearers.

Canada polls anglers
Canada's Department of Fisheries and Oceans is conducting a survey on sport fishing in Canada. The department is sending out 90,000 questionnaires to determine what success sport fishermen had in 1980, where they fished and how much they spent.

Mobile home sales totaled 250,000 in '80
A quarter of a million mobile homes were sold in the United States in 1980 at an average retail price of $17,000 to $20,000, the Federal Trade Commission reports. New mobile homes accounted for two-thirds of the housing available for sale under $35,000, the Manufactured Housing Institute says.

Must you pay for unsolicited goods?

By E.J. DEMSON, J.D.
A store delivers merchandise to you which you didn't order. Are you obligated to pay for it or return it?

Q. Soon after we moved to our home in Louisiana, a local store's salesman called and offered to let us try a steam iron. Two days later a truck delivered the iron to us, so we called the store and told them we didn't order the iron.

A. Can they collect for it under these circumstances? A. Delivery of unsolicited merchandise is deemed a gift to the recipient, according to Louisiana law (La. Stat. Sec. 7:51.461, added Act 10 of 1970). The recipient may enjoy the sender from billing or requesting payment. Most states have similar laws regarding delivery of unsolicited merchandise.

Q. One of our tenants overstayed his lease by a month. He claims he doesn't owe for that month because we didn't send him a notice of lease expiration. What does the law in Illinois say? A. When a lease specifies a period of occupancy, the tenant must surrender possession at the agreed time.

No notice to quit the premises need be given him (Ill. Stat. Sec. 80-12).

Q. One of your recent columns told of homestead exemptions in another state. What benefits are offered by taking a homestead exemption in California?

A. California Statute (Sec. CC 1260-2-3) provides for a homestead exemption for residents 65 or older on a home equity not exceeding $40,000. Younger home owners are permitted such exemption on equity not exceeding $25,000.

You must execute the homestead declaration like a deed and record it with the County Recorder. It is advisable to have a lawyer prepare and file it.

A homestead exemption is protected from liens and judgments by creditors. In addition, it may discourage creditors from filing such actions against you.

Q. I'm 82 and my wife is 78. We want to pass our small estate along to our married children without probate; our home, held in joint tenancy, and savings and property worth about $9,000.

The Legal Way

We live in Pennsylvania. Must this estate be probated?

A. Your home and savings account, if held jointly, will go to the survivor without probate (195 Pa. Super 293-161 A 898). If your other assets total less than $10,000, probate administration is unnecessary (Pa. Stat. Sec. 20-102). But a petition must be filed with the probate court.

If you should die simultaneously, the estate would go to your children in equal shares.

GRANITE CITY (ILL.) PRESS-RECORD, Thursday, June 25, 1981—27

The median family income ranges from $9,000 to $10,000 annually.

Your Social Security

Benefits are an earned right

Q. I receive SSI and it seems to me the Social Security office is always bugging me for something. A friend of mine gets Social Security and they never seem to both him. Why? — S.T.

A. SSI (Supplemental Security Income) payments are based on need and there is a requirement in the law that calls for reviewing the recipient's eligibility at least once each year. Additional reviews are required if there is a change of residence, income, marital status, or since living arrangements determine the amount of payment.

Social Security benefits are not based on need. They are paid as an earned right because someone has worked and paid Social Security taxes.

Q. There seem to be constant complaints about Social Security not being enough to live on. It seems to me that Social Security was never meant to be the sole source of retirement income. — D.H.

A. Social Security benefits are designed to replace only a portion of pre-retirement income — 30 to 55 percent of pre-retirement earnings will be replaced by Social Security benefits. The low wage-earner gets the higher replacement rate.

Since it replaces only a part of pre-retirement earnings, retirees are expected and encouraged to plan for other retirement income.

Q. I will be 70 in July 1981. I want to know how much I can earn in 1982 and still be eligible to receive Social Security. I have no intention of retiring. — T.O.

A. There is no limit to the amount you can earn in 1982. People aged 72 and over are exempt from the earnings limitations at the present time. Starting in 1982 that exemption will apply to people aged 70.

Q. I applied for Social Security benefits in March 1981, but I won't retire until June 1981. Will I get paid for the first five months in 1981? — T.L.

A. That depends on your age and the amount you will earn in 1981. For example, if you are under age 65 and you limit your earnings to $4,080 or less, you could be paid starting with March — the month you filed. If you are over 65 and limit your earnings to $5,500 or less, this year you could not be paid for all months in 1981.

Here we have outlined only two of the possibilities. You should discuss it in more detail with your local Social Security office.

Doctor's Forum

No known cure for lupus

Q. I have been told that I am "Lupus positive" through several tests. I am currently being treated with cortisone and steroids.

Please tell me about this disease, how it is treated and with what medications, and what the outcome is for patients with the disease? — H.H. Platteau, Calif.

A. Systemic lupus erythematosus, or SLE, is a disease of unknown cause that can affect the body in many ways. Patients with this disorder develop antibodies to their own cells. These antibodies are part of everyone's normal defense against "foreign" material like bacteria, but in lupus the antibodies cause damage to the normal cells. This can result in fatigue, fever, rash, sensitivity to the sun, sores in the mouth, arthritis, pleurisy, anemia, heart disease, kidney disease, seizures or thinking problems. Some patients will have only a few of the above problems while others will have more extensive disease.

When the only problem is a particular skin rash, the patient has discoid lupus erythematosus. The diagnosis is made by the combination of physical findings and laboratory tests. These tests can be positive in people who do not have lupus and will be found in some healthy elderly persons, people taking certain medications, people with liver disease and people with other types of arthritis or related diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis, scleroderma, Sjogren's syndrome and polymyositis.

SLE affects primarily women in their late teens and early 20s. It has been estimated to affect 1 in 1,000 women in the United States, but it can also affect men, children and the elderly. There is some inherited tendency for SLE but unknown factors in the environment also seem to be important.

SLE is a complicated, lifelong illness and should be managed by a specialist, usually a rheumatologist. There is no cure — treatment is directed at the particular problem. In general, patients need a lot of rest, good nutrition and avoidance of sun exposure.

The skin problems may be treated with chloroquin or hydroxychloroquin which are also used for malaria. The arthritis is treated with aspirin or other related medications.

Patients with severe problems may be treated with drugs like azathioprine or cyclophosphamide which are also used to treat cancer. In addition, some patients have been treated with plasmapheresis, which is like dialysis and involves a machine that filters the blood.

The prognosis for patients with SLE has improved in recent years. Some studies show only 5 to 10 percent of patients dying with kidney and nervous system disease, as well as with infections which are often related to the treatment of the disease.

The illness usually occurs in episodes, with periods of "remission" when the patient has few symptoms.

There is another factor too — peer involvement. Everybody does it. Few people of any age are comfortable being out of the mainstream.

There are many thousands of teen-agers and young adults who do not smoke, however. The example of their parents and their own common sense have outweighed the peer pressure as well as the feeling that the future is a kind of never-never land. It is refreshing to realize how many are on the no smoking, no drugs, limited drinking and realistic diet wave lengths.

Q. I'm embarrassed to keep up this subject, but my husband laughs at me, and I don't want to talk to our pediatrician about it.

Our 6-month-old baby boy has a lot of small toys to play with in his bed and look at, and music to listen to. Despite all of that he requests for as long as possible. This is located in an R-4 Single Family Residence District in Nankin Township, Illinois located at 3128 Amherst in the State Park Area.

My husband says I'm foolish, but I'd like your objective opinion. Please don't use a name.

I won't laugh at you, but I would overly sympathize either. Continued distractions and ignoring the practice are probably the best way to go. Other parents have sometimes used physical restraints, but that tends to call undue attention to the situation, giving it more recognition than it deserves.

In case it has occurred to you, try not to go overboard on the idea that he is harming himself in any way.

Secretary of State Jim Edgar reports that three of his facilities in Chicago and two in Springfield will be open an extra day from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, June 27, for sale of truck and trailer license plates and June passenger car expiration stickers.

Edgar said the June 30 deadline will not be extended.

"Although you may send your applications by mail, we cannot guarantee the delivery of plates or stickers before the deadline," Edgar said. "Buy them over the counter now and you'll avoid standing in long lines at my facilities or at financial institutions."

Plates and stickers will be available June 27 at the Centennial Building and the Centennial Building only. Mileage tax and farm plates may be purchased in the Centennial Building only.

Pickup truck and trailer plates and June expiration stickers are available at many banks.

All second division vehicles licensed on a fiscal basis, including trucks, tractors, trailers, semi-trailers and farm trucks and trailers, are required to purchase new plates.

Anyone driving a vehicle with expired plates or sticker will be subject to a fine for improper registration beginning Wednesday, July 1.

Our Children

Why kids smoke

By WILLARD ABRAHAM, Ph.D.

Q. How do you account for the fact that so many young people start and continue to smoke (my two daughters included) when the information regarding smoking dangers is so widespread?

A. Do you suppose they ignore all the warnings just because they are young, and sickness, death and the future are just too remote from their thinking and concerns? When we were young many of us looked at our parents and other "old" people (after all, our parents were probably in their 30s and 40s) and felt no kinship with their age. Young people today probably feel the same way.

There is another factor too — peer involvement. Everybody does it. Few people of any age are comfortable being out of the mainstream.

There are many thousands of teen-agers and young adults who do not smoke, however. The example of their parents and their own common sense have outweighed the peer pressure as well as the feeling that the future is a kind of never-never land. It is refreshing to realize how many are on the no smoking, no drugs, limited drinking and realistic diet wave lengths.

Q. I'm embarrassed to keep up this subject, but my husband laughs at me, and I don't want to talk to our pediatrician about it.

Our 6-month-old baby boy has a lot of small toys to play with in his bed and look at, and music to listen to. Despite all of that he requests for as long as possible. This is located in an R-4 Single Family Residence District in Nankin Township, Illinois located at 3128 Amherst in the State Park Area.

My husband says I'm foolish, but I'd like your objective opinion. Please don't use a name.

I won't laugh at you, but I would overly sympathize either. Continued distractions and ignoring the practice are probably the best way to go. Other parents have sometimes used physical restraints, but that tends to call undue attention to the situation, giving it more recognition than it deserves.

In case it has occurred to you, try not to go overboard on the idea that he is harming himself in any way.

Quiet Valley sewers possible

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

One hundred and forty-seven homes in the Quiet Valley Subdivision of Pontone Beach could be using the new county sanitary sewers by early next month if the village's sewer lines through the subdivision are found free of groundwater infiltration.

That was the good news Gene Futch, superintendent of the Madison County Special Sewer District One, gave members of the sewers and drainage committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce last week.

Thus far, Futch said, his office has issued 2,300 tap-on permits to residents of the service area and have actually approved the connections for 1,900 homes.

Addition of the 147 homes in Quiet Valley can take place "just by turning a valve," Futch said, noting that the complicated infiltration study should be completed soon. The Quiet Valley lagoon, used as a sewage holding pond, then can be closed, eliminating one health hazard in the village.

After that, the sewer connections to the holding pond which serves the Gaslight Walk Apartments and the Village Green Mobile Home Park can be tested and, if they are found to be free of leaks, can be connected to the new sanitary sewers.

Since that pond and those sewers are privately-owned, the owners will have to pay for both the expensive study and for the tap-on permit.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1982, the fee for the tap-on permit is expected to rise from $25 to $400.

That increase is designed to urge most residents of Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships to connect their homes to the new sewers before this winter. That is one of the changes being proposed by the county as Assistant State's Attorney Michael "Zeke" Smith rewrites the ordinance under which the sewer district operates. The ordinance currently in effect demands that residents tap onto the new sewers within 90 days of the date their section of the sewer has been officially declared open.

Futch said that portion of the ordinance has not been enforced, since the expense and work involved in linking a home to the new sewers is such that homeowners should be given some flexibility, rather than a strict deadline.

Futch noted that the current ordinance requires a formal public notice when a section is opened notifying residents of the 90-day deadline and no such public notices have yet been issued by his office or the county.

Another part of the ordinance being rewritten by Smith deals with the controversial issue of who should design and build collector sewers in new subdivisions.

The current ordinance requires a builder to allow the county to select the engineer to design the sewers and to select the contractor through competitive bidding, even though the developer, who is paying for the construction, may be a contractor capable of installing the sewers himself.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer, a registered professional engineer, said at the Chamber committee meeting that he has heard objections from other engineers that the county is, in effect, proscribing them from practicing their profession when it comes to sewers in Madison County, since the county sewer committee has traditionally appointed Juneau Associates as engineer for the sewer work.

"I feel it is an infringement upon my professional license to tell me I cannot engineer sewers. Sewers are just not that highly technical to install. Anyone can install them if they know how to use a level," Brewer said, stressing that he was speaking as an engineer and not as an employee of Granite City.

Developer Jim Whitt, another member of the sewers and drainage committee, contended the ordinance, in its present stage, "infringes on my civil rights under the constitution." He said that if the voters had known there would be a $400 per home tap-on fee and restrictions on who can engineer and build sewers, many would have voted against the bond issue which paid the cost of the sewer construction program.

Walter "Dick" Sparks, supervisor of Chouteau Township and a former chairman of the sewer committee (he is no longer a member), commented, "I don't see how they would have a right to say who designs the sewers. I am concerned with the requirement of an engineer appointed by the county for sewer work rather than any licensed engineer."

However, Futch said he believes the same requirements are being written into the new ordinance by Smith as in the old ordinance. "I believe that is in there," Futch said.

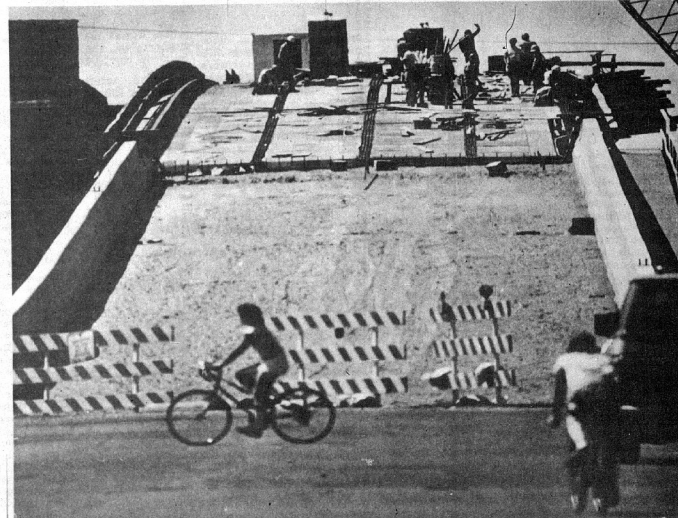

If Smith continues the requirement for county selection of an engineer and contractor for private subdivisions, it will be in apparent violation of a legal opinion issued in July, 1979, by Assistant State's Attorney Michael Thompson, which warns that such controls may violate federal and Illinois anti-trust laws.

"I am gravely concerned that if, in fact, there is to be a provision in the ordinance requiring the use of firms specified by the county, the county and its officers could be subject to anti-trust prosecution for unreasonable restraint of trade or commerce," Thompson said in his legal opinion to the attorney for the sewer committee.

"I also would question whether or not such a provision would satisfy equal protection requirements," he added.

According to the late Harry Hartman, who served as the committee's attorney until his death, the current ordinance was prepared by the Shepard, Morgan & Schwaab engineering firm of Granite City, which later became Juneau Associates. Juneau has been the engineer for the sewer project and has been selected for all or nearly all of the engineering work ordered by the sewer committee.

The Chamber committee unanimously agreed to write a letter to Smith outlining the committee's concern over requirements in the proposed new ordinance, including the $400 tap-on fee and continuation of the county's selections of engineers and contractors for subdivision sewers, and asking him for a response before the ordinance is presented to the Madison County Board.

HALFTIME. Construction workers prepare the eastern half of the 19th Street overpass for concrete pouring which is scheduled to begin in about a week. The western approach and road deck have been completed thus far at the project which will eventually link downtown with West Granite City. The overpass is expected to be opened to motorists in late fall of this year.

Route changes by Bi-State

The Bi-State Development Agency has announced it will make major bus service adjustments in the Illinois portion of the St. Louis metropolitan area, effective July 6.

The adjustments are necessary due to the elimination of local funding for public transportation in St. Clair and Monroe Counties and a subsequent reduction in state subsidies to Bi-State for transit operations in those counties. The loss of funding will also result in the closing of Bi-State's East St. Louis and Belleville bus station garages and the loss of jobs for approximately 200 transit workers.

Sixteen Bi-State Illinois bus routes will be eliminated. They are the 500X Belleville Express, 502 Cahokia-Centerville, 501 Caseyville-Collinsville, 561 East McKinley-Raab, 709 East St. Louis-Cross-town, 559 East St. Louis-Fairview Heights, 562 Lebanon Avenue, 704 Missouri-Stockyards, 504 O'Fallon Express, 706 Twentieth and Central, 559 West Main Express, and all school service.

The elimination of the above routes will leave three lines serving St. Clair County exclusively. Due to closing of Bi-State's two Illinois station garages, certain early morning and late evening trips on the 513 Alton-St. Louis, 507 Collinsville-Bellefonte, 503 Collinsville-Edwardsville, 505 Waterloo-St. Louis, and 533 West Granite-Stockyards lines will be eliminated. All buses serving Illinois will now operate from Bi-State's Missouri garages.

Madison County has continued to collect a local subsidy for public transportation and has entered into a contract with Bi-State to provide bus service. At the request of the Madison County Transit District, Bi-State will begin to provide bus service, for the first time, to the City of Bethalto, Ill. That service will initially consist of the extension of the 513PR Alton-Hazelwood Park Ride line from Alton to Bethalto and the implementation of one new route, the 514R Bethalto-St. Louis Rapid. In addition, certain trips of the 503 Collinsville-Edwardsville line will be rerouted and extended to serve Oliver C. Anderson Hospital.

For more detailed information concerning Bi-State bus service in Illinois, persons may call Bi-State Transit Information at 875-4144 in the East St. Louis-Granite City area, 233-3700 in Belleville, or 254-9233 in the Alton-Wood River area.

Delay in traffic light repair

Motorists in Granite City who have been delayed by a traffic light at 23rd Street and Madison Avenue flashing red all four directions this week will have to put up with the frustration a while longer.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer told the city council last week that the control box for the lights has been "tapped" by cars on numerous occasions and last week it was "tapped once too often."

He said R. Don Electrical, the firm which repairs the city's traffic lights, has estimated that the control box would cost $4,000 to $5,000 to repair. Noting that it was installed seven years ago under the TOPICS program, and that several used parts were used in it, then, Brewer said the city should consider replacing the control box, rather than patching it up.

He said he is getting a proposal from Dron to replace the box, but the city probably will have to advertise for sealed bids on a replacement. "We probably will pay for it out of motor fuel tax funds, so we have to be careful about bidding procedures," Brewer told the council.

He said the 1981-82 motor fuel tax budget currently is being prepared and should be available for council consideration Tuesday night.

"Hopefully, it will contain a lot of money for striping (of street lines)," he added.

The council Tuesday night may study a proposal that a stop sign be erected for northbound traffic on Grand Avenue at 24th Street, the site of a serious accident last week where a motorist was pinned in a car.

Alderman Paul Fisk asked the city's traffic committee to look into the possibility of bringing in an ordinance for the sign, saying that visibility in the intersection is hampered by a large hedge and there have been several accidents there recently.

"I don't think we can do anything about the hedge, but we can look into it," he said.

The council also received a petition from residents of Clark Avenue who say their street is "bleeding" a tar-like substance and they would like the city to correct the problem.

An experimental surface material was installed on that street during the city's last resurfacing program and has never completely dried, one alderman explained. Putting rock on the surface has not stopped the substance from bleeding to the top and causing a mess, he added.

The petition was referred to the traffic committee and the city street superintendent to determine what can be done to aid the residents.

Superintendent of Streets Lionel Portell reported that between May 18 and June 15, his crews removed 308 truckloads of fallen brush and tree limbs from the city. The limbs were blown from trees during the April 3 tornado and two windstorms in April and May.

"We're pretty much gotten out in front of it (the brush problem)," Portell told the council.

Portell was asked to look into the possibility of purchasing the necessary equipment for the street department to patch its own tires. Alderman Jake Varadani of the Fifth Ward reviewed the bill list and commented, "It is unbelievable how many hundreds of dollars are spent repairing tires."

Anniversary dinner for 'Sen. Sam' on July 31

An appreciation dinner to honor State Sen. Sam M. Vadala will be held on the evening of July 31. It has been announced by Nick Maggos, general chairman for the event. The purpose of the dinner is to celebrate the 15th anniversary of Vadala's service in the Illinois General Assembly. "These have been 15 very special years of crystal clear service to the 6th District," Maggos noted, "so it is fitting that this crystal anniversary be recognized by all the citizens who have benefited so abundantly by having a man like Sen. Sam fighting for their interest in Springfield.

"Because Sen. Sam has so many friends, cutting across party lines from all walks of life, we are trying to keep the cost down. Thus, tickets for the dinner will be priced at $35 per person with reservations available for tables of 10 at $350.

The dinner will be held in the Meridian Ballroom of the University Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville at 7 p.m. on Friday, July 31. Reservations may be made by sending a check or money order, payable to "A Salute to Senator Sam" at $35 per person of $350 per table of 10 to 300 Circle Drive, Edwardsville, Ill., 62025.

Tables will be assigned on a first-come, first-serve basis. Maggos noted.

Begin petition drive for Illinois Initiative plan

The Coalition for Political Honesty has begun a year-long petition drive for the Illinois initiative, a constitutional amendment to permit voters to pass statewide laws by petition and binding referendum.

"The people of our state are far ahead of politicians when it comes to demanding reform and the Illinois Initiative will give voters the opportunity to vote directly on important issues," said Patrick Quinn, Coalition spokesman.

With the initiative power, Illinois citizens will be able to petition for binding statewide referendums on key subjects like tax relief, ethics reform, transportation policy, and education.

The Coalition must collect 252,000 signatures by May 2, 1982 to place the Illinois Initiative proposal on the ballot as a constitutional amendment referendum.

Last November the coalition volunteers organized the successful referendum campaign for the Cutback Amendment which reduced the size of the Illinois House by one-third.

Quinn said the Coalition's initiative proposal was drafted by top constitutional lawyers and is modeled after successful initiative provisions in other state constitutions.

Under the Illinois Initiative, citizens would be able to petition the legislature to enact a proposed law by collecting about 200,000 petition signatures.

If the citizen petition proposal is enacted by the legislature and signed by the governor, it would become law.

But if the citizen proposal is rejected by legislators or the governor, then the proposal would be submitted to a vote of the people at the next general election for their majority approval or rejection.

The initiative Amendment also gives the legislature the option of putting its own alternative to the citizen initiative measure before the voters at the same election. If this happens, the proposition receiving the most votes prevails.

Quinn said the Coalition's initiative amendment provides for legislative input and consideration but gives citizens "a ballot-box way to bypass the politicians when they duck and sidestep important issues."

Right now, 22 states across the country permit a citizen initiative process similar to that proposed by the Illinois Initiative Amendment.

In the Midwest, voters in Missouri, Michigan, and Ohio have petitioned for and won on initiative measures in recent years.

"Long experience with the initiative process in other states and industrial states has demonstrated that voters exercise common sense and good judgment when it comes to voting on initiative proposals," said Quinn.

The authority to put the Illinois Initiative on the 1982 ballot as a binding constitutional amendment is a current provision in the State constitution which allows voters to change the structure of the legislature by direct petition and referendum.

The Coalition used this same provision last year to collect 477,135 signatures and enact the Cutback Amendment by referendum.

"We believe our volunteers have the proven signature gathering ability to put the Illinois Initiative before the voters in 1982," said Quinn.

Quinn said the Coalition will be contacting community, civic, and taxpayer groups across the state for support in the Illinois Initiative campaign.

Anyone interested in circulating Illinois Initiative petitions may write the Coalition at Box 708, Oak Park, IL 60303 or phone (312) 524-1978.

Multi-bank bill is sent to governor

Multi-bank holding company legislation, supported by the Association for Modern Banking in Illinois, was passed 99-59 Thursday by the Illinois House and was sent to the governor's desk. Sponsors included Rep. Jim McPike (D-Alton).

McPike said, "The elected representative of the people already have multi-bank holding companies in Missouri, Wisconsin, Iowa and Kentucky. Indiana has branch banking."

James B. Watt, president of the Association for Modern Banking, said, "We are witnesses to a history-making event in Springfield. Not since the mid-1800s has significant bank structure reform legislation passed the state legislature. We now look for careful study of this bill by Governor James R.

Thompson."

AMBI has a membership of 275 representing over 80 percent of the total banking assets in the state, but many banks and several groups strongly opposed the holding company plan.

Watt said, "Our state is behind the times. We are surrounded by states which already have multi-bank holding companies."

Charles L. Daily, chairman of AMBI, voiced his opinion that "the goals of a bank, following affiliation with a holding company, would remain community-oriented. Assets would be used for the development of the city in which it is located.

"The basic management would remain intact, with local control by a local board of directors," Daily said.

The legislation also provides for one additional limited service facility for a total of three. Banks are presently allowed two facilities, one within 1,500 feet and another within 3,500 yards of the bank.

The additional limited community service facility would be allowed within the home office county or, if outside the county, no farther than 10 miles from the bank. It could not be established closer than one mile from the home office of another bank.

Other significant provisions stipulate that after the date of enactment, newly-chartered banks could not be acquired until they have been in existence for ten years. And a multi-bank holding company could not charter any new banks," said Daily.

Flowers & Gifts

Ron Kelch

Christian legend tells us that after the Lord created the Garden of Eden, he walked there daily and gave every plant a name. Each plant was then cautioned against forgetting its name. He then turned to leave. At that moment, he heard the small voice of a diminutive flower ask, "By what name am I called, O Lord?" The Lord, struck by his own forgetfulness, smiled down at the little blossom and said, "Since I forgot you before, and to remind me never to forget you again, your name shall be 'Forget-me-not.' Hence the 'Forget-me-not' (Myosotis palustris) became the symbol of remembrance.

Debate on city's financial deficit expected tomorrow

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Recorder

Tomorrow night's meeting of the Granite City Council is likely to be a lively meeting, as aldermen decide how they can "make ends meet" while the city's financial condition could be as much as $1 million in the red by June 30.

Two members of the city's finance committee confirmed last week that the city appears to owe approximately $600,000 in bills at this time and faces a $400,000 payroll on June 30.

The council last week was able to find the money to pay an $80,000 bill from the Milam-East Division of SCA Services, which had threatened to terminate garbage pickups in Granite City last Friday, unless the bill was paid. It was paid in full Thursday morning.

It appears that borrowing may be necessary for the first time in many years to see the city through the June 30 payroll and, to keep necessary city services operating through the receipt of new taxes, which could be in August or even September, sources indicated.

However, the council has been waiting for Mayor Paul Schuler to return to town today and make a recommendation before any action is taken. Schuler was unavailable this morning for comment.

A certified public accountant and two interns have been studying the city's books, attempting to find out just how deep in debt the city is. Employees of the treasurer's office said the current confusion has been caused, in part, by the hospitalization of City Treasurer Nick Petrillo, who now is recuperating at home.

The auditors were expected to complete their study Friday, but were called away for another commitment that day and their investigation has not yet been completed, according to David Nolan, administrative aide to Mayor Schuler.

He said he is certain that the accountants will complete their report in time for the mayor to study it and make recommendations to the city council Tuesday night.

Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman, a member of the city's finance committee, has hinted that he feels a combination of higher taxes and a reduction in the city's manpower will be required to balance the city's finances. Some borrowing also may be necessary, he indicated.

He said he believes the public would understand a modest tax increase, if the city shows through the power cuts that it is making every attempt to eliminate any fat in the city spending.

The anticipated fight over how to trim expenses may seem like "an instant replay" of the debates one year ago which preceded passage of the budget for the 1980-81 fiscal year, which ends June 30. At that time, several council members argued for the elimination of some posts and departments and for reductions in the manpower of all possible departments, except in the police department.

Mayor Schuler has remained strongly opposed to reductions in manpower, saying the city has the ability to support the current level of services it provides the citizens. His current feelings on the situation may not be known until tomorrow night's meeting.

The council will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the township hall, 2060 Delmar Ave. The meeting is open to the public.

PI KAPPA LAMBDA HONORS GC STUDENT

Beth Potillo, a senior from Granite City, was one of 14 members initiated into Pi Kappa Lambda, the national music honor society at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Pi Kappa Lambda recognizes and encourages students who have reached a high level of musical achievement and academic scholarship. Graduate students induced into the chapter must have reached "A's" in two-thirds of their graduate studies. Seniors must be in the upper one-fifth of their class, while juniors must be in the upper one-tenth of their class.

HERE FROM TURKEY—Specialist Fourth Class and Mrs. Wendell Morgan and their son have completed two years of active duty in the U.S. Army in Turkey, and have returned. They have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Schrieber, 2109 Missouri Ave., and plan to return to Tulsa, Okla., to live.

THE COUNCIL will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the township hall, 2060 Delmar Ave. The meeting is open to the public.

He said he is certain that the accountants will complete their report in time for the mayor to study it and make recommendations to the city council Tuesday night.

Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman, a member of the city's finance committee, has hinted that he feels a combination of higher taxes and a reduction in the city's manpower will be required to balance the city's finances. Some borrowing also may be necessary, he indicated.

He said he believes the public would understand a modest tax increase, if the city shows through the power cuts that it is making every attempt to eliminate any fat in the city spending.

The anticipated fight over how to trim expenses may seem like "an instant replay" of the debates one year ago which preceded passage of the budget for the 1980-81 fiscal year, which ends June 30. At that time, several council members argued for the elimination of some posts and departments and for reductions in the manpower of all possible departments, except in the police department.

Mayor Schuler has remained strongly opposed to reductions in manpower, saying the city has the ability to support the current level of services it provides the citizens. His current feelings on the situation may not be known until tomorrow night's meeting.

Aluminum recycling to expand

There was good news at the last Granite City Council meeting for anyone who has stood in the long, slow-moving lines to sell aluminum cans and scrap on the one day a week the aluminum recycling truck is in town.

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling received permission from the council to begin operations three hours a day, Tuesdays through Saturdays, at the same location, the parking lot of Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center.

A company spokesman said operations here will start five days a week as soon as possible. Hours for the truck's operation are to be announced.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer told the council he found no zoning violations for them leaving the trailer in the parking lot five days a week, as long as they have the permission of the shopping center.

According to the letter, that permission has been received. The council granted its approval, contingent upon permission of the shopping center.

The truck attendant weighs bags of cans, aluminum gutters, lawn chair frames and other aluminum and pays cash on the spot, depending upon the weight of the aluminum and the current market price. The price has been averaging approximately one penny per can, according to users.

The truck has been operating only on Fridays and waits of a half hour or more to sell aluminum have been common, the users say.

"I like to recycle the aluminum and think it is good for the country, but Friday afternoons was an inconvenient time, because I have to work. The long lines are not helpful," one man commented after waiting in line on a Friday.

The new schedule should be more convenient and should greatly reduce the lines, councilmen believe.

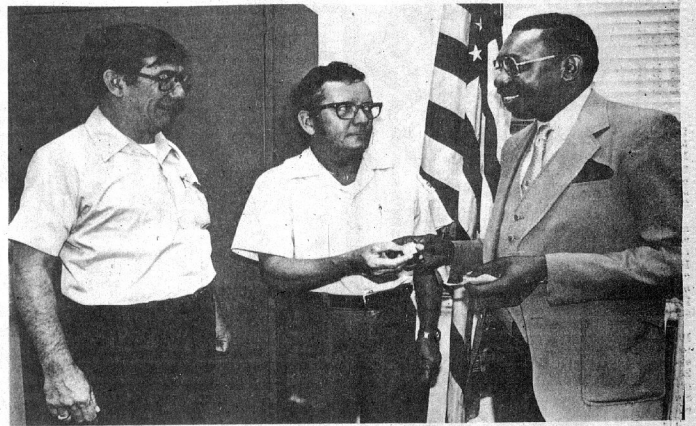

In other business, the council: Received a letter from the Illinois-American Water Co., which noted that new fire hydrants have been installed, on the council's request, on in the 1900 block of Adams Street, on Independence Drive and in the 2900 block of Washington Avenue.

Approved a request for the placement of a mobile home at 2107 Louisiana St. Written permission of 90 percent of the neighbors residing within 150 feet of the location was obtained and the city's building and zoning department therefore endorsed the request.

Received a petition for a stop sign at the end of the 2300 block of Clark Avenue and referred it to the city attorney and council's traffic committee for study and a recommendation.

Asked the ward aldermen to investigate a Niedringhaus Avenue business with pinball machines and pool tables which may have failed to get council approval for a gaming room. Chief of Police Ronald J. Vetter said the operation was halted two weeks ago by police, who pulled the plugs on most of the unlicensed machines and referred the matter to City Inspector Emerald Dawes.

Albert Noud who has 38 years of service. Noud received a 35-year gold pin and Vrabec received a 25-year silver pin. Moore also received a silver pin for his 26-years of service. The pins have the U.S. Postal Service emblem on them. (From Record Photo)

GC Business Women to sponsor Jr. Miss

The Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club will sponsor the Junior Miss Pageant for local high school girls in September.

The project was approved at last week's business session at Burns Cafeteria, conducted by Ollie Derr, president.

Proceeds from the pageant will be used to further the club's charitable and scholarship programs.

In other action, the resignation of Patricia Crockarell as first vice-president was accepted. Her attendance at nursing school will prevent her from serving in the newly elected post, she reported.

By recommendation of the executive board, Rose Ezell, current second vice-president, was appointed to fill the vacancy, with Barbara A. Hodges, parliamentary, named second vice-president.

LaVelle Stephens will serve as parliamentarian. Carolyn Smith, finance chairman, read the names of her committee and announced budget preparation will begin July 1 at a meeting in her home. She asked all committee chairmen to prepare and present a report of anticipated expenses at that time.

Mrs. Smith also reviewed plans to start an investment club through the shopping center, which includes stocks, bonds and investments.

Preliminary reports were presented concerning the annual style show, scheduled Oct. 18 at the Granite City Township Center, with Mrs. Hodges and Linda Irwin as co-chairmen. Ann Graklanoff, Community Affairs chairman, said details shortly will be announced about a CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) course to be conducted by the Tri-City American Red Cross Chapter for BPW members.

Other new committee chairmen appointed by Mrs. Derr are: Marionrose Lambert, Americanism; Delores Allen, historian; Linda Valencia, cheer; Sharon Beckett, Celia M. Howard Fellowship; Janet Mills, ways and means; Jeannette Kampen, library; Celestia Puryear, individual development.

Mary Frances Lynch, Pearl Ryckman, BPW Scholarship; Valerie Stevens, music; Sharold

Yount, yearbook; Carolyn Smith, scrapbook; Rose Ezell, bylaws revision; Anna Mae Gates, hospitality.

Helene Bischoff, International Business Women's Week; Hazel Rollins and Rosanna Burnett, National Business Women's Week; Norma Mendoza, Women Involved; Carolyn Frye, anniversary night; Edith Schwab, chaplain.

EMT describes emergency medical services to BPW

By VALERIE EVENEDEN of the Press-Record

"You could save someone's life if you are trained in CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) and we'd like to encourage you to take a CPR class," Mark Evenson, an emergency medical technician with the Granite City Fire Department, told the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club.

Speaking to BPW members at their June dinner meeting last week at Burns Cafeteria, Evenson emphasized the importance of having "self help knowledge of first aid" to cope with an emergency until professional help arrives.

"In Granite City, we are a maximum of three minutes away from almost any area," he said.

He reminded members the telephone number to call for an ambulance is 877-4747. To report a fire the number is 876-4545.

In addition to his duties as a Granite City EMT, Evenson is a senior nursing student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and plans to continue his education in the field of anesthesiology after receiving his degree at SIUE.

The vast majority of calls made to the city's emergency medical service concern possible heart attack victims and auto accidents, the EMT said.

He described how the service originated in 1977 and said a total of 16,231 ambulance runs have been made to date during the four years of its existence.

Evenson said the department has 20 emergency medical technicians, with five out of the 20 also being qualified paramedics.

It requires about one year's additional training to become a paramedic, over and above EMT training, plus interning twice a month at an approved hospital.

The latter service is performed on one's own time, he explained. Current training is taken at St. Louis University and Wood River Township Hospital.

In the event someone is injured in the home, Evenson stressed those without training should "leave the person alone and don't move them."

"Just don't do anything if you are not trained. You could harm the victim even more," he cautioned.

He said the number of "crank" calls has decreased since automatic tracing equipment was installed last year.

"We still get quite a few crank calls from Madison," he said, pointing out that Madison residents must now request ambulance service through its police department due to the number of false calls.

If calling for fire department or ambulance service, he reminded the group to state their name and address.

Quite frequently, Evenson said, someone will call and say, "My husband is having a heart attack," and in haste will hang up the phone before saying where they live or giving a name.

One BPW member commended the local emergency medical service for quick action which, she said, "saved the life of my father."

Another member, however, questioned the policy of taking a patient first to St. Elizabeth Medical Center before transferring him to a St. Louis hospital, even though the man's doctor is at the second hospital.

Evenson replied, "Our job is to get the patient to the nearest medical facility. The closest hospital is the safest bet when you are dealing with a heart patient," he added.

After his talk, several BPW members indicated interest in attending a CPR class which will be sponsored later this summer.

The guest speaker was introduced by Patricia Crockarell, first vice-president and program planning chairman. Nina Limbaugh was dinner chairman.

Ollie Derr, BPW president, welcomed the members and guests from the Collinsville BPW Club.

Among those present were Miss Annellen Smith, Illinois Federation president-elect, and Lois Wetton, District 14 director.

Reports from the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's state convention in Chicago were presented by Mrs. Derr, Sharold Yount, president-elect, Patricia Crockarell, first vice-president, and Rosalee Stern, immediate past president.

Varied health planning role for Eilerman

Ted Eilerman, executive vice-president of St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the recipient of a special award at the employee award banquet held in late spring at Sunset Hills Country Club, is being praised by his associates for varied achievements on behalf of the medical center.

Eilerman is an active participant in many health care organizations on local, regional and statewide levels.

He is a member of the board of directors of the Hospital Association of the Metropolitan St. Louis, serving as chairman of the Council of Planning and as treasurer. He also is a member of the organization's Council on Management Services and serves on both the executive and labor committees.

He was appointed to the board of directors of the Statewide Health Coordinating Council by Governor James R. Thompson. In that role, he has been involved with development of the first Illinois state health plan. He also served as chairman of the executive planning committee for two years.

Eilerman is a member of the Illinois Hospital

Association's Task Force on the Future of Health Planning and the Medicaid Funding Crisis, as well as serving on that organization's Council on Health Facilities and Services.

In addition, Eilerman is chairman of the Community Health Committee of the Tri-Cities Area, a group of Commerce and is on the board of directors of ARCH (Alcoholic Rehabilitation Community Home) in Granite City.

He received his bachelor of science degree in business administration in 1968 from Quincy College in Quincy, Ill. He received his master's degree in hospital administration from Trinity University, San Antonio, Texas, in 1968.

Eilerman joined the staff of St. Elizabeth in 1969 as an assistant administrator. From 1974 until the present time, he has served as executive vice-president.

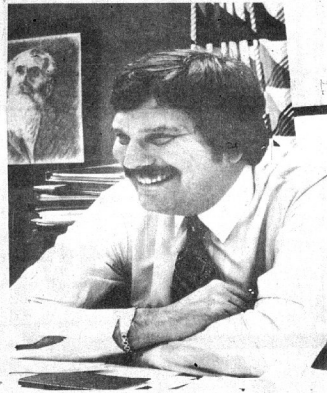

Eilerman, his wife, Peggy, and their two children reside in Collinsville.

State role in developing new tour attractions

The Hall-Young bill to promote tourism, sponsored in the House by State Rep. Wyetter Young (D-East St. Louis) and in the Senate by Sen. Kenneth Hall (D-East St. Louis), passed both bodies of the General Assembly and is now on the governor's desk for signature.

The bill adds to the current powers of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs the ability to assist municipalities or local promotion groups in developing new tourist attractions.

"Tourism is important for the economy of Illinois in all parts of the state, from the Sears Tower in Chicago to the Shawnee National Forest in Southern Illinois, and the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows and the Cahokia Mounds in my area," Mrs. Young said.

In Good Spirits! by GEORGE CREWS

If it seems every wedding dinner is the same as every other, and if you have such an occasion coming, and would like something different, enjoyable and elegant, try serving your guests strawberries amaretto dessert. What could be more appropriate than a seasonal fruit served with the "liquid of love"? Fill champagne glasses with whole, hulled, fresh strawberries. Sprinkle with toasted almonds, then pour a quarter cup of amaretto liqueur over the strawberries in each glass. For another, interesting dessert made with amaretto, arrange several thin slices of fresh pineapple on a silver plate, surround with grated coconut and sprinkle with several tablespoons of coconut amaretto. Amaretto can be used in combination with a variety of fresh fruits and is, certainly, a most appropriate and delightful finishing touch to any wedding dinner.

Court backlog grows in May

The backlog of cases pending in Madison County Circuit Court grew by 742 cases during May, but many of the time-consuming major cases were disposed of, according to Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell.

In reviewing the monthly report from the Illinois Supreme Court on the flow of cases in the division, Portell noted that there were 5,599 cases filed and 4,857 terminated in the circuit.

The only loss of currency was in the traffic division where 800 more cases were terminated than were filed during the month. However, all other categories gained in backlog, including law, felony and misdemeanor cases.

Following are, in order, the numbers of new cases filed in May, the number disposed of and the number pending at the end of May for each category.

TYPE	Filed	Terminated	Pending
LAW CASES SEEKING $15,000 PLUS
Jury	56	77	1,447
Non-Jury	29	10	785
LAW CASES UNDER $15,000
Jury	1	23	537
Non-Jury	42	56	1,042
OTHER CASES
Chancery	28	21	401
Mis. Remedy	31	25	419
Emin. Domain	14	2	13
Mental health	47	46	9
Divorce	159	162	1,116
Family	59	26	2,022
Felony	47	45	377
Misdemr.	310	368	1,910
Small claims	454	367	1,309
TOTALS	1317	1306	11,659

The report also notes that of the 94 felony cases terminated during the month, 46 were not convicted of a felony, including 29 dismissed, 11 reduced to misdemeanors, and six acquitted of the felony charges. Forty-six cases ended in guilty pleas during the month and two others were convicted during May. Of those sentenced during the month, 16 were sentenced to imprisonment and 32 were given probation or conditional discharges.

Area farms harvesting sweet corn

By CHRIS DOLL

Area Garden Adviser Commercial sweet corn growers in the American Bottoms have started harvesting sweet corn.

Many gardeners are doing the same thing if their early varieties were planted in early April. The best of the early varieties include Sundance, Spring Gold and Earlibelle, but many others are in the 64 to 72 day season.

(The Illinois Crop Reporting Service says corn is 94 percent planted.)

Main season varieties such as Gold Cup, Gold Winner, Golden Bantam, Beltinger, NK199 and other 78 to 82 day corns will follow shortly. These are higher in sugar and are better for processing than the early varieties.

Some other good eating varieties are Silver Queen, B-Queen, Sugar Loaf, and Honeycomb. But there are many varieties that taste good when picked and eaten fresh.

For the best eating, corn should be cooked as soon as possible after harvesting. If cooking is delayed, refrigerate the corn to retain quality.

Many nut trees growing in home plantings are seedlings that grew from seeds or from transplanted seedling trees.

Even though the seedling trees may be 10 to 15 years old or older, they have not produced nuts.

Tree owners who desire a crop from these trees should look closely at the tip ends of branches. This is where the blossoms and the nutlets (female flowers) can be seen.

On some trees, there may be bloom and nuts develop. However, due to incomplete pollination or insect damage, the fruit may drop.

No blossoms or fruit (nutlets) is an indication that the tree likely will not bear or may bear inconsistently. Varieties that bear good nuts can be grafted on these trees by the devoted hobbyist.

If the nutlets drop soon after bloom and before they enlarge, then a second tree should be planted or a limb of the tree grafted for pollination.

The second variety should be one that sheds pollen from the catkins when the first tree is blooming.

Look for insect damage (pinpoint-size holes) on the small nuts that drop from the tree.

Pecan casebearers sting the small nuts, causing them to drop. This usually happens in May. Insecticides (Sevin or Malathion) will help control the casebearers.

Sometimes, poor nutrition is the cause. Trees growing in soils low in nitrogen and potassium frequently bloom but fail to set nuts. In this case, trees should be fertilized in the spring with 12-12-12 or equivalent at the rate of one-half pound per inch of trunk diameter.

Canada polls anglers
Canada's Department of Fisheries and Oceans is conducting a survey on sport fishing in Canada. The department is sending out 90,000 questionnaires to determine what success sport fishermen had in 1980, where they fished and how much they spent.

Mobile home sales totaled 250,000 in '80
A quarter of a million mobile homes were sold in the United States in 1980 at an average retail price of $17,000 to $20,000, the Federal Trade Commission reports. New mobile homes accounted for two-thirds of the housing available for sale under $35,000, the Manufactured Housing Institute says.

Must you pay for unsolicited goods?

By E.J. DEMSON, J.D.
A store delivers merchandise to you which you didn't order. Are you obligated to pay for it or return it?

Q. Soon after we moved to our home in Louisiana, a local store's salesman called and offered to let us try a steam iron. Two days later a truck delivered the iron to us, so we called the store and told them we didn't order the iron.

Can they collect for it under these circumstances? A. Delivery of unsolicited merchandise is deemed a gift to the recipient, according to Louisiana law (La. Stat. Sec. T 51.461, added Act 10 of 1970). The recipient may enjoin the sender from billing or requesting payment. Most states have similar laws regarding delivery of unsolicited merchandise.

Q. One of our tenants overstayed his lease by a month. He claims he doesn't owe for that month because we didn't send him a notice of lease expiration. What does the law in Illinois say?

A. When a lease specifies a period of occupancy, the tenant must surrender possession at the agreed time.

No notice to quit the premises need be given him (Ill. Stat. Sec. 80-12).

Q. One of your recent columns told of homestead exemptions in another state. What benefits are offered by taking a homestead exemption in California?

A. California Statute (Sec. CC 1260-2-3) provides for a homestead exemption for residents 65 or older on a home equity not exceeding $40,000. Younger home owners are permitted such exemption on equity not exceeding $25,000.

You must execute the homestead declaration like a deed and record it with the County Recorder. It is advisable to have a lawyer prepare and file it.

A homestead exemption is protected from liens and judgments by creditors. In addition, it may discourage creditors from filing such actions against you.

Q. I'm 82 and my wife is 78. We want to pass our small estate along to our married children without probate: our home, held in joint tenancy, and savings and property worth about $3,000.

The Legal Way

We live in Pennsylvania. Must this estate be probated?

Your home and savings account, if held jointly, will go to the survivor without probate (195 Pa. Super 293-161 A 498). If your other assets total less than $10,000, probate administration is unnecessary (Pa. Stat. Sec. 20-102). But a petition must be filed with the probate court.

If you should die simultaneously, the estate would go to your children in equal shares.

30 million visit France
More than 1,190,000 Americans visited France in 1980, a 53 percent increase over the 1979 figure. France claims to have had more foreign visitors than any other European country, a total exceeding 30 million, up 4.6 percent over 1979.

A violent crime decade
During the 1970s the U.S. violent crime rate per 100,000 population increased from 363.5 to 535.5, a rise of about 48 percent, while the absolute numbers of violent crimes reported to police jumped from 738,820 in 1970 to 1,178,540 in 1979, up about 59 percent. Murders increased 34 percent during the decade.

10 million living in mobile homes
Ten million Americans, many of them senior citizens, are living in mobile homes. Industry figures show that retired people represent 32 percent of mobile home dwellers, blue-collar workers, 37 percent, and white-collar workers, 15 percent. The median family income ranges from $9,000 to $10,000 annually.

Your Social Security

Benefits are an earned right

Q. I receive SSI and it seems to me the Social Security office is always bugging me for something. A friend of mine gets Social Security and they never seem to both him. Why? — S.N.

A. SSI (Supplemental Security Income) payments are based on need and there is a requirement in the law that calls for reviewing the recipient's eligibility at least once each year. Additional reviews are required if there is a change of residence, income, marital status, etc., since living arrangements determine the amount of payment.

Social Security benefits are not based on need. They are paid as an earned right because someone has worked and paid Social Security taxes.

Q. There seem to be constant complaints about Social Security not being enough to live on. It seems to me that Social Security was never meant to be the sole source of retirement income. — D.H.

A. Social Security benefits are designed to replace only a portion of pre-retirement income — 30 to 55 percent of pre-retirement earnings will be replaced by Social Security benefits. The low wage-earner gets the higher replacement rate.

Since it replaces only a part of pre-retirement earnings, retirees are expected and encouraged to plan for other retirement income.

Q. I will be 70 in July 1981. I want to know how much I can earn in 1982 and still be eligible to receive Social Security. I have no intention of retiring. — T.O.

A. There is no limit to the amount you can earn in 1982. People aged 72 and over are exempt from the earnings limitations at the present time. Starting in 1982 that exemption will apply to people aged 70.

Q. I applied for Social Security benefits in March 1981, but I won't retire until June 1981. Will I get paid for the first five months in 1981? — T.L.

A. That depends on your age and the amount you will earn in 1981. For example, if you are under age 65 and you limit your earnings to $4,080 or less you could be paid starting with March — the month you filed. If you are over 65 and limit your earnings to $5,500 or less this year you could be paid for all months in 1981.

Here we have outlined only two of the possibilities. You should discuss it in more detail with your local Social Security office.

No known cure for lupus

Q. I have been told that I am "lupus positive" after several tests. I am currently being treated with cortisone and steroids.

Please tell me about this disease, how is it treated and what medications, and what the outcome is for patients with the disease? — R.H., Pismo Beach, Calif.

A. Systemic lupus erythematosus, or SLE, is a disease of unknown cause that can affect the body in many ways.

Patients with this disorder develop antibodies to their own cells. These antibodies are part of everyone's normal defense against "foreign" material like bacteria, but in lupus the antibodies cause damage to the normal cells. This can result in fatigue, fever, rash, sensitivity to the sun, sores in the mouth, arthritis, pleurisy, anemia, heart disease, kidney disease, seizures or thinking problems. Some patients will have only a few of the above problems while others will have more extensive disease.

When the only problem is a particular skin rash, the patient has discoid lupus erythematosus. The diagnosis is made by the combination of physical findings and laboratory tests. These tests can be positive in people who do not have lupus and will be found in some healthy elderly persons, people taking certain medications and people with liver disease and people with other types of arthritis or related diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis, scleroderma, Sjogren's syndrome and polymyositis.

SLE affects primarily women in their late teens and early 30s. It has been estimated to affect 1 in 1,000 women in the United States, but it can also affect men, children and the elderly. There is some inherited tendency for SLE but unknown factors in the environment also seem to be important.

SLE is a complicated, lifelong illness and should be managed by a specialist, usually a rheumatologist. There is no cure — treatment is directed at the particular problem. In general, patients need a lot of rest, good nutrition and avoidance of sun exposure.

The skin problems may be treated with chloroquin or hydroxychloroquin which are also used for malaria. The arthritis is treated with aspirin or other related medications.

Patients with severe problems may be treated with drugs like azathioprine or cyclophosphamide which are also used to treat cancer. In addition, some patients have been treated with plasmapheresis, which is like dialysis and involves a machine that filters the blood.

The prognosis for patients with SLE has improved in recent years. Some studies show only 5 to 10 percent of patients dying with kidney and nervous system disease, as well as with infections which are often related to the treatment of the disease.
